WE NOMINATE

Julius Robert Oppenheimer, one of the architects of the world in which we live and since 1947 Director of The Institute for Advanced Study, who this past week returned to the nation's front pages as the 1963 recipient of the $50,000 Enrico Fermi Award, as high an honor as a grateful country can confer upon a scientist. The significance of the award, in addition to the recognition it extends to this eminent Princetonian on the threshold of his 59th birthday, lies in the fact that it is administered and given by the United States Atomic Energy Comission, the agency that nine long years ago by a 4-1 vote labeled Oppenheimer a security risk on the basis of "fundamental defects of character."

The Princeton community's reaction to last Thursday's public announcement, marking the third time in eight years that a Princetonian had been chosen for this distinction (the late John von Neumann in 1956 and Eugene Paul Wigner in 1958), was one of unabashed enthusiasm. The consensus, whether in scientific circles or in more earthy sectors, was "high time," with one expressing pride that a Princeton resident, Henry DeWolf Smyth, had been the lone dissenting member of the A. E. C. in 1954. All approached by TOWN TOPICS agreed with the observer who noted: "a splendid if belated acknowledgment of Oppenheimer's enormous contributions to his country and science and an effort by Washington to restore his good name."

The most moving statement linked to the chain reaction touched off by the Fermi Award came from Oppenheimer's study in Fuld Hall as a kind of preamble to a wide-ranging press interview. In a brief prepared text, Oppenheimer, an articulate humanist as well as a pioneering physicist, said in part: "Most of us look to the good opinion of our colleagues and to the good will and the confidence of our government, I am no exception." In these few words, without any further discussion of his own past, Oppenheimer in a sense broke nine years of silence and conjured up memories of the stigmata of the un-American phenomenon known as "McCarthyism."

Elected to the New York Mineralogical Society at age 11 and a brilliant student at Harvard, where he completed four years of work in three and gave almost as much time to languages and art as he did to science, this native New Yorker and his career have come to symbolize the dawn of the atomic age. In 1942 he was a little-known physicist on the faculties of the University of California and the California Institute of Technology. Three years later, when he resigned as the guiding genius of the Manhattan Project, he was a public figure and was extolled in a popular journal as the one man who could have taken in stride "three years of the most intense mental strain any man ever had to undergo."

The unvarnished accounts of Oppenheimer's successes in directing the World War II atomic bomb laboratory at Los Alamos, N. M., are numbered among the thrilling sagas of modern history. Equipment had to be shuttled to the bare desert installation from all parts of the nation, including in the early stages three train carloads of apparatus from Princeton, a cyclotron from Harvard and generators from Wisconsin. Long before the A-Bomb was exploded over Hiroshima, Oppenheimer had moulded into a single team an extraordinary galaxy of scientists as well as 6,000 military and professional workers. Throughout the hectic, nerve-snapping period, say official reports, "the main decisions were Oppenheimer's and all proved to be correct."

For his explorations of the mysteries of matter; for his understanding of the "special faith and dedication" of the profession of science; for believing, as director of one of the world's great institutions of learning, that "we can keep on learning indefinitely"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

"ROMAN CIRCUS" ON TOUR

Johnson Case To Grand Jury. Shortly before 4 a.m. on the raw, freezing morning of February 8, 1963, a raiding party whose actions, reactions and end results resembled the ancient movie antics of the Keystone Kops more than they did the suave operations of TV's impeccable private eyes invaded the house at 75 Cleveland Lane in which Mrs. Barbara Johnson and her two children were living. Also in the house at the time of the shooting were two house guests, Walter D Bannard and Irving Potts Jr.

The commandoesque drama was staged, police reported, by Mrs. Johnson's estranged husband, J. Seward Johnson Jr., 32, pharmaceutical firm heir, to obtain evidence against her for divorce proceedings. During the battle that took place, Mrs Johnson shot one of the raiders, Harvey D Blount, 50 of East Orange, four times, and physical violence in varying degrees was suffered by four other participants, one of them Mrs. Johnson's bulldog, Ebenezer.

MEET THE PRESS: Mrs. Barbara Johnson, one of the central figures in Monday's hearing before Magistrate Tams on the raid and shooting affray at her Cleveland Lane home in February, pauses outside Borough Hall to answer some of the numerous questions put to her by reporters covering the case. (Story, this page).

So many charges and countercharges were filed as a result of the raid (the score is 86 to date) that the case was later accurately dubbed a "Roman circus" by one of the lawyers for the 10-man boarding party. According to police, the task force which descended on the Johnson residence included five private detectives (only some of them legally qualified for the job), two photographers, two lawyers, and Mr Johnson.

Preliminary Hearing Held. Shortly before 11 30 a.m. on the warm, sunny Spring day of Monday, April 8, Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. began a preliminary hearing on the plethora of accusations. The opening, scheduled for 10 a.m., was delayed because of an additional charge of assault with intent to kill entered by Blount against Mrs. Johnson.

After listening to nearly four hours of frequently contradictory testimony, Magistrate Tams bound over everyone involved in the raid to the Mercer County Grand Jury for its deliberations the following morning, thereby shifting the proceedings to Trenton

The jury had been scheduled to get the case on Tuesday regardless of any action Mr. Tams might have taken. Monday's preliminary hearing was called by the magistrate, however, "for all parties who wished to have it"

According to authorities, Mrs Johnson's attorney, Saul Zucker, and Joseph Brody, attorney for Blount, both had refused to waive their rights to a preliminary hearing to determine whether there was sufficient evidence to warrant grand jury action

Mrs. Johnson Testifies. Mrs Johnson told the hearing that she was shot at twice while she was running to a neighbor's home in search of aid She said that the shots were fired after she "heard someone say, 'There she goes. You'd better shoot her before she gets you.' "

She said that she had been asleep in the second-floor bedroom of the house when she was awakened by noises and "a feeling of the presence of someone in the room."

"I saw a man standing over me, hugging at me," she said, indicating by her testimony that the man was Blount She added that she had left a small table lamp turned on and could see clearly the area of the room around the bed.

"I pushed him back and grabbed the gun from a drawer in a cabinet next to my bed I pushed in the gun's chamber and looked up He was still standing there, looking at me I warned him, 'Get out or I'll shoot' ", Mrs Johnson continued, "He started forward, and I sho' at him. He kept coming, and I shot again He continued forward, and I shot again."

Further testimony by Mrs Johnson revealed that she was not sure of the number of times she had fired, "but he collapsed close enough for me to touch" She said that she then heard other men fighting and shouting in the hall and that three of the men were beating up Mr Potts, who had been a guest at her home, helping her catalogue her extensive library on whaling and collection of whaling gear

She testified that she finally was able to escape from the house and, despite the shots fired at her and the bitter cold, reach a neighbor's house to call police She reported that her chief concern, after the immediate one of stopping Mr. Blount's threatening actions, was to get to her two-year-old daughter, sleeping in another room The reason she had the gun near her bed, she said, was because of anonymous threats phoned to her frequently in the past regarding her daughter's safety.

Round-Up

Details of a major change in the town's central business section will be found in Business in Princeton (page 32), which features a report on the new tenants in the old Balt. . . . McCarter Theatre's immediate past and long range future are discussed by manager Milton Lyon in News of the Theatres (page 5), while a five-page sports section (26-31) includes baseball fans' predictions on who will win the 1963 pennant races.

News of Easter services dominates the church page (33), while a look at TOWN TOPICS' issues of other years is provided in "Going Back" (page 21). . . . major news stories include preliminary steps toward the design of a new Borough Hall, long-range plans for guiding the growth of Princeton Township and a dramatic escape from drowning in an Alabama flood by 18-year old David Stewart of College Road West.

The YW-YMCA was pried open by thieves three times over last weekend. The main building was entered on Friday and Saturday, and the Youth Building, the old Dorothea House on the corner of John Street and Avalon Place, was broken into on Friday. . . . From the main "Y," $15 was taken from an open cash register in the snack bar on Friday. Entry was gained by ripping the screen and removing the fan from the snack bar window. . . . That same night $5 in petty cash was taken from a metal box in a cabinet in one of the Youth Building offices. Entrance was made via an unlocked door. . . . On Sunday thieves again got into main "Y" through the snack bar window, ransacked several offices, found and pocketed $10.

UNINTENDED - IMPLICATION DEPT.: A local club has sent out announcement of an annual men's party to be held later this month. . . . The bulletin read ominously: "Cocktails, to be served at 6:30 p.m. in the men's grill, will preclude the dinner at the Princeton Inn."

This coming Monday night Township Committee will introduce the long-awaited ordinance to buy an interest in the site for the new public library building. . . . Proposed location is the corner of Witherspoon and Wiggins Streets.

Man brought into Princeton Hospital's accident dispensary last week gave his place of employment to the nurse on duty: "Fire Escape Farms." Quizzed further, he said, "You know; the one over in Jamesburg." Seems he couldn't read and that was as close as he could get to the word "Forsgate."

A surfeit of smoke this week . . . mostly from field fires. There were four brush fires in the township on Monday alone. . . . Three fires in the borough: a leaf fire that got out-of-hand on Sunday; a fire in a car parked in the Witherspoon parking yard on Friday; a smolderer on Sunday in the basement at 172 Nassau, underneath Davidson's Market. . . . Smoke went through the market and upstairs apartments. . . . Unit 6 and Hook and Ladder truck responded . . Board of Health checked Davidson's the following day, found everything okay, no smoke damage to food.

OUT FOR LUNCH: Harvey D. Blount, recently released from Princeton Hospital after being seriously wounded in the February fracas at the home of Mrs. Barbara Johnson, leaves the Borough Hall magistrate's hearing on Monday during the early afternoon court recess.

Blount Changes Testimony. The first witness summoned by Kester R. Pierson, assistant borough attorney who acted as prosecutor, was Blount.

Testifying in a strained, weak voice, Mr. Blount admitted being in the Johnson home to get evidence for divorce proceedings. His account of the night's events differed considerably from Mrs. Johnson's and also, it is understood, from testimony he gave police soon after the shooting.

He said that he went to the second-floor bedroom of Mrs. Johnson, stood in the doorway, announced he was a private detective and displayed a document to support his statement. He said that he saw the pistol in Mrs. Johnson's hand and the next thing he knew he was shot in the face.

He said that he then fell over the threshold and across "something soft", either a pillow or a chair. He heard "vibrations" from the other shots, he said, but he was unable to tell how many times he had been hit.

Not Licensed Detective. On cross - examination by Mr. Zucker, Blount admitted that he was not a properly licensed private detective. He said that he did not know that the owner of the Essex Investigation Agency for which he was working had died and that the firm no longer existed legally.

Blount added that, earlier on the night of the shooting, Mr. Johnson had held a rendezvous with him and the other members of the raiding party in a motel suite on the outskirts of Princeton and had told them that he was the owner of the house.

The second witness called was Lt. Francis J. Maguire, who testified that Mrs. Johnson had signed a statement admitting that she had fired a number of shots which hit Blount. It was learned after the hearing that, among the injuries sustained by Blount, was loss of sight in his left eye. He was discharged only last week after extensive treatment in Princeton Hospital for his bullet wounds.

Mrs. Johnson, recalled for further testimony after court had recessed for lunch, said that the kitchen door, through which Mr. Blount admitted entering the house, had been locked before the entrance by him and other members of the raiding party. Lieutenant Maguire also testified that his investigation revealed that the lock had been broken on the door and that a forced entry had been made.

Not brought out at the hearing was information about the gun used by Mrs. Johnson to shoot Blount. At the hearing it was repeatedly referred to as a .22-cal. automatic. A pistol of that type would be fed by a clip of bullets and would therefore take some time to arm and make ready for firing.

According to Borough Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan, the weapon was a .22-cal., 6-shot revolver on the frame of a .38. Such a gun could be armed simply by flipping the loaded cylinder into place. This could have an important bearing on the amount of time that elapsed between Mrs. Johnson's reaching for the gun and her firing of the first shot.

Grand Jury's First Day. On Tuesday, in its out-of-town opener, the case appeared before the Mercer County Grand Jury in Trenton. Most important results of the jury's first day's hearing included the refusal of six of the raiding party to testify. Also, J. Seward Johnson Jr., generalissimo of the 10-man raiding group and Mrs. Johnson's estranged husband, was not present. Johnson was to have been subpoenaed to testify, but the sheriff's office had been unable to find him.

Mrs. Johnson and Harvey Blount, the wounded ex-employee of the now-defunct Essex Investigating Agency, both took the stand during the five-hour closed hearing. Six other witnesses were also heard by the jury. The hearing will be continued next Tuesday.

HEARING HIGHLIGHTS

From the Echo Chamber. Because of an anticipated s.r.o. attendance, the hearing was held in the auditorium of Borough Hall. Or, considering the very poor acoustics, it might better be called the non-auditorium of Borough Hall.

Even the court stenotypist had trouble catching parts of the testimony, and members of the press constantly wheeled their heads in an effort to get every word. A p.a. installation would have been a boon to everyone.

New York, Newark, Trenton and Philadelphia papers, plus the wire services, assigned reporters and photographers to cover the hearing. But, perhaps again because of the poor acoustical qualities of the hall,

BUILDING STUDY SLATED

By Borough Council. At its April meeting on Tuesday, Borough Council approved on first reading an ordinance introduced by Dr. Ellwood W. Godfrey, Council president and finance chairman, to appropriate $5000 for architectural services and studies in connection with preliminary plans for Princeton's proposed new municipal building. A public hearing on the matter has been scheduled for the May 14 meeting of the Council.

The $5000 for the studies, to be conducted by architects Richard J. Chorlton and Henry A. Jandl, would be paid out of the Borough's capital account, according to Dr. Godfrey's proposal. Mr. Jandl, along with Mayor Henry S. Patterson, Borough Administrator Robert F. Mooney and Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan, has been inspecting municipal buildings in other localities to help determine Princeton's course of action. It was reported that Mr. Jandl is scheduled to have preliminary plans and estimates for the building ready for presentation by this June.

At the meeting, Council also agreed to the necessity of giving early consideration to a municipal bond issue which is planned for later in the year. In this connection, Mayor Patterson asked Borough Administrator Mooney to bring together a team to draw up a schedule and prospectus for deciding when and how the bond issue should be floated.

Proceeds from the issuance of the bonds will be used to pay for the purchase of the Lahiere-Kane property at Spring and Tulane Streets and for the conversion of the lot into a public parking area. Similarly, the funds would be used for the conversion of already-purchased lots on Park Place and on the corner of Jackson and Witherspoon Streets.

In addition, the bond issue would cover the cost of an $80,000 modernization of the sewage plant and incinerator on River Road and extension of a new sewage line. It is also hoped that the cost of the new Borough Hall can be included in the bond issue.

Other Council proceedings on Tuesday:

- The reading by Mr. Mooney of three letters addressed to Council. The first, from Mrs. James W. Cronin, of 188 Prospect Avenue, was a request that dogs be prohibited from running free in the Borough. Based on statements by Councilman William H. Walker and Police Chief McCrohan, the dog problem in the Borough was considered of insufficient urgency to warrant any immediate action.

- The second letter, from Alan G. Frank, co-chairman of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce civic action committee, enclosed a report to the chamber's board of directors recommending the endorsement of the Witherspoon-Wiggins site for the new public library but asking that the board urge the Mayor and Council to avoid "a net loss in available parking in this crucial sector."

- The third letter, from Prof. Joseph R. Strayer, asked Council's reconsideration and approval of the proposed 50-unit public housing project on North Harrison Street. Mayor Patterson said that there were definite plans to meet with the Housing Authority in the near future to discuss the matter of low-cost housing in greater detail.

A report from Councilman Walker on public welfare said that there were a total of 35 cases in the Borough which received aid during the preceding month. Of these, only four needed assistance because of unemployment. The remaining 31 required help because of sickness or for reasons other than lack of work.

Mr. Walker, also chairman of the Council committee on the police department, reported that, during a simulated fugitive exercise on March 15 which originated in Trenton and which included the entire Delaware Valley area, Patrolman Harry Kahny had apprehended the unmarked test vehicle as it drove down Stockton Street just 11 minutes after Trenton headquarters had given the alarm. This was the first time that such a test vehicle had reached Princeton. Previously, the car had always been detected and stopped no further from Trenton than Lawrenceville.

Chief McCrohan added that, in responding to two emergency police calls on Tuesday, Officer Kahny had reached the scene before the patrol cars. Mayor Patterson remarked that these three incidents should do much to offset any mistaken idea that Mr. Kahny only engaged in the necessary but unpopular job of handing out parking tickets.

Announcement was also made at the meeting by Councilman Alfred E. Sorenson that Princeton's Spring Clean-Up Week had been scheduled by the Engineering Department for May 6-10.

STUDENT IS DROWNED

When Dirt Dam Collapses. A 20-year-old Princeton University student was drowned Monday in an accident outside Birmingham, Ala.

The body of Myrl Chapman of Tulsa, Okla., was found about a quarter of a mile away from the spot where the car in which he had been a passenger was swept from the highway. The tragedy occurred with sudden swiftness when a nearby dirt dam collapsed, releasing a "wall of water" that crashed over the highway.

Three other Princeton University students in the same car managed to escape. They are David Stewart, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Stewart of 18 College Road West, a freshman, Batly Bishop, a junior from Philadelphia, and James Gewin, a senior from Tuscaloosa, Ala. They were treated for shock and bruises.

The four students had spent their spring vacation at the Gewin home in Tuscaloosa and were returning to Princeton early Monday morning. According to police, they were driving on Alabama Route 150 south of Birmingham at 2 a.m. when the water hit them.

David Stewart called his mother after the accident and reported that he did not know how he got out of the car. The fact that he is very strong and a good swimmer saved her son's life, Mrs. Stewart feels.

He was carried two miles down a creek in a swift tide. Along the way, David told of hitting rocks and tree stumps but he managed to keep his head above water.

Young Gewin, who had been sleeping in the back of the car, told the police he looked up just as a sheet of water hit the car. "We were swept over and over," he said. "We didn't open any of the doors or windows. After waiting for what seemed an eternity, the car hit something real hard. I don't know how I got out, but I grabbed a tree. Two of my friends tried to grab the tree but they missed."

The flood was caused by the collapse of a dirt dam that held back a 35-acre lake. It had recently been built on private property, about two miles from the highway. The lake emptied in a matter of minutes, according to a civil defense worker.

$562,000 FOR SCHOOLS

Bond Issue May 7. Additions to Littlebrook and Riverside Schools will cost about $562,000, however, the Township School Board has $50,000 left over from construction of Community Park School, so the bond issue necessary to finance the new additions will be only $512,000.

Public hearing on the bond issue for new construction will be held Tuesday, April 30, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Community Park School. Voters will go to the polls on May 7.

The estimated cost was discussed and approved by the Board at its regular meeting last Thursday night. Ten classrooms and one more kindergarten will be added to Riverside and the outdoor play area will be enclosed.

When Riverside was designed, in 1958, architects and Board members anticipated the need for these additional classrooms by mid-1960's. The present bond-issue, therefore, jumps the gun by only a year or two.

At Littlebrook, the Board will add a library, music and art rooms, thereby bringing the school up to the standard of other Township schools.

Quiet Primary Tuesday

The annual April primaries will be held Tuesday, and voters in Mercer County are expected to mark the day by going fishing. The reason: no contests.

The only contest in the immediate Princeton area will be in the Borough of Pennington where two Republicans seek the nomination for mayor. John T. Huddleson is the regular organization Republican candidate and Lawrence V. Shear the regular Republican candidate in Pennington.

Mercer County itself has no contests, either. The road ahead for Freeholder candidates leads straight into November.

This Is Princeton

press reports differed considerably. Total number of charges and countercharges were variously quoted as 80, 78, 77 and 76.

Any number in that range represents a tremendous amount of legal paper work, but the correct count, according to Magistrate's Court clerk Mrs. Alice Schanuel, is 86 including nine material witness charges, all of which were passed on to the grand jury.

Before the hearing began, one harried-looking reporter from a New York tabloid asked Mrs. Johnson to give her testimony as slowly as possible. "So I can spend the whole day here in the country," he begged.

When asked if he had anything to say before the session started, Bruce, Mrs. Johnson's 14-year-old son, told reporters he only hoped the hearing would end in time for him to try out for his school (PCD) baseball team.

Saul J. Zucker, attorney for Mrs. Johnson, was asked at the end of the hearing if the long day in court had been a waste of time. "Not at all," he replied. "It gave us a chance to hear what angles the other lawyers were planning to hit from and to observe the courtroom manner of some of the other principals. Like watching another team warm up before a basketball game."

Some of the reporters (all male, by the way) described Mrs. Johnson as having red hair. Others wrote she was a blonde. Others made her a brunette. Aware of man's inevitable ineptitude in describing color, one reporter nimbly appealed to a woman spectator for a verdict. "Auburn," she said. "With highlights."

FESTIVAL HERE?

McCarter Hopes So. Relaxing from his winter duties by directing, at full steam, the forthcoming production of "Gypsy!," Milton Lyon, McCarter's producer, speculated this week about a Tercentenary Festival of the Arts for Princeton, and announced with some pride, that McCarter's season had been a "break-even" one financially.

The Tercentenary Festival of the Performing Arts would occupy McCarter and Princeton for six weeks during the summer of 1964, if Mr Lyon's hopes and the state's plans both materialize.

"The theme, of course, would be New Jersey and the Tercentenary and Princeton, specifically," Mr. Lyon explained "Among other offerings, we'd like to have one major symphonic drama, using the music of an American composer, perhaps Roger Sessions, who has been commissioned to write for the Tercentenary."

A symphony orchestra, chorus, dancers and actors would be on hand, performing in McCarter Theatre, Palmer Stadium, Murray Theatre and the outdoor quadrangle of the Graduate College — whatever location seemed to be best suited to the presentation at hand.

Who Pays? "Hopefully, we'd recruit the best performing arts students in the state, or studying in the state," Mr Lyon said. "They would be eligible to work with a professional core of actors, dancers, directors and choreographers —a mixed group of professionals and students."

At the moment, the condition of the Festival is uncertain. McCarter has proposed the idea (it was Mr. Lyon's concept) to the Tercentenary people, and their performing arts committee and Governor Richard Hughes have been enthusiastic.

Mc Carter, of course, is willing to stage-manage the whole affair, but the question is "Who's going to pay?" because McCarter's interest — which means, of course, the interest of Princeton University—does not extend to financial backing.

The Tercentenary has allocated $15,000 in matched funds. "But who does the matching?" Mr. Lyon asks. "The commitment is the problem."

Deficits Go Down. For the first time in its three years, the McCarter Theatre repertory program has broken even, operationally, Mr Lyon said The first year, the theatre went into the red by $80,000, the second year by $40,000, this year by only $20,000 All of the $20,000 is in the "Maintenance" column, none on the "Operations" side

"We were the first people in history with this idea," Mr Lyon pointed out, "the idea of a university professional repertory company acting as a service unit for the radius of the community, and a living library for the student population. Others have taken on the idea the University of Michigan was second but we were first. And now we know that it's more than just an experiment, it's solid, and here to stay. We've done in three years what should, by rights, have taken about ten to do."

With three successful years and six seasons accomplished McCarter has begun to look ahead to a 20-year plan.

"In an experiment, you don't do everything at once— you see whether your experiment works, and then you move ahead a little at a time," Mr. Lyon said.

There are many things the producer and his staff would like to see in McCarter in the next two decades: a new lighting board, to begin with, more storage space; more administrative space (including a box-office larger than the present ticket-size one); a portable extension for the stage, to be used for concerts.

"And I'd like to see us have a liquor license, a bar and a restaurant," Mr. Lyon added, "but if we're smart, we don't do too much too soon.

But Right Now . . . More immediately, the future is in hand Next fall will see four classics no "theme" this time and next spring, everything will be Shakespeare, in honor of the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

"Our sound financial condition is due partly to community support," Mr Lyon said. "In fact, I sometimes think the community has over-supported us—people who held season tickets and who came to the extra offerings must have thought they were going to McCarter every night in the week"

To spread this out, Mr. Lyon would like to see an expanded season, playing four shows in 12 weeks, instead of the current four in eight weeks.

"We're in a constant process of trying to understand our project," the producer said "We're here to provide service, and to give what New York doesn't provide And if our Festival of Performing Arts goes through, we'll have McCarter in operation 12 months out of the year."

"RHINOCEROS" OPENS

In Players' Production. Which is wiser—to take on somebody bigger, tougher and stronger than you are with the chance that you may go down in defeat, or play it safe and live like a mouse all your life?

This question, or a variant of it, must surely have crossed the conversation when the Community Players were trying to decide whether to produce Eugene Ionesco's "Rhinoceros."

Now, with a full performance weekend behind them, the Players probably know that it was more than they could handle "Rhinoceros" will play again this Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights in Murray Theatre, and then will mercifully close.

John Harayda, the director, has done about all he could, but he has just not had the material with which to do it. Community Players' casts are amateurs, and Ionesco's subtle counterpoint is not made for the tired commuter who must rehearse every night after he climbs down from the 6:43.

Small Town Setting. Ionesco tells us, in this play, about a small provincial town whose inhabitants begin to turn into rhinoceroses. We have Jean, a pompous bourgeois businessman who nags constantly at his friend, Berenger, trying to change him from an easy-going drunk to an Upright Citizen; we have Daisy, Berenger's sweetly serious young sweetheart and Miss Bottom, a hilarious sprouter of left-wing cliches. We have a professor of logic, a grocer and a housewife whose cat is trampled to death by a rhino.

In the end, the rhino minority becomes the majority and the thundering herd takes over completely, leaving only one human being in the whole world, a man who says ruefully to himself that "People who try to hang on to their individuality always come to a bad end."

Throughout the play, as these people confront one another, they speak in the banalities of thoughtless men, often in unison like the herd they are.

Usually, they are wholly absorbed in their selves, and this pre-occupation with self has been used by Ionesco to create fascinating little passages that are almost like canons, with the various voices coming in to produce a kind of comic harmony.

Cast Overmatched. The housewife mourns her dead cat, Jean quarrels with his friend, Berenger; Daisy and the townsfolk moralize with ludicrous solemnity that Asiatics—in this case, Asiatic rhinoceroses — are just like everybody else, and all of these strains are woven delicately together in the most fascinating kind of canonic dialogue.

But—all this, and an amateur cast? Mr. Harayda has worked heroically to achieve what Ionesco had in mind, and in brief flashes, he succeeds, especially when he is working with Lorin Zissman. Mr. Zissman, in the Zero Mostel role of Jean, is by far the most competent member of the cast, minding his cues with split-second attention and rising to Mr. Harayda's demands. When he turns into a rhino and departs from the scene, the play slumps alarmingly.

It slumps because Berenger, the play's central figure, is in this production, its weakest one. We are told in the program notes that this is the first major role undertaken by Richard Coen, who plays the part, and it is unfair to actor, play and audience to cast inexperience in such a pivotal role. For one thing, Mr. Coen simply does not know his lines —or didn't, last weekend. For another, he does not have the experience necessary to make us understand fully the reasons why Berenger is spared the fate that descends on everyone else A drunk who shows up late at the office? With only this to qualify a man as a human, hardly anybody would turn into a rhinoceros! No, there is more to Berenger than this, but we do not see it at Murray Theatre.

Aside from Mr. Zissman, the strongest players are the women. Lois Cohen is a delight as the stern left-winger, Sylvia Fontijn plays admirably the hysterical housewife who sobs over her kitten, Susan Lerner is a sweet Daisy and, in very brief role, Esther Usiskin stands out as the Grocer's Wife.

It is to be hoped that Community Players will realize how much better it is to reach

BE A HOSTESS

In the Grand Style. The splendor of the hostess gowns at Edith's this fine 1963 spring is enough to drive a guest right out the front door. Who cares? You can always look in the mirror.

The shop on Chambers Street cherishes particularly a pure silk gown of full-blown royal and emerald roses, cut with square neck, no sleeves and a wide sash to hold in its spare, floor length.

And then, as if this weren't enough, you wear over it a matching chiffon robe, so wide and full and sheer billowing that the very act of wearing it is a breeze. It has raglan sleeves that taper to a fit just below the elbow.

Near by on the rack is a hostess dress of the fabric they call dacron "Cream Puff," which means a crepe-finish material. This dress, full length of course, has a skirt of permanent cluster pleats, a top with boat neck in front and a deep U in back. The print is a glory of lemon, gold and white field flowers with a touch of green, and around the waist goes a wide, emerald velvet sash.

With this dress there is a peignoir that pulls in at the front waist with that same emerald velvet sash, and swings out in back under full sail. The bodice has surplice closing which does marvellous things for the figure, a deep V neck cap sleeves. A pajama in the same print has brief, snug legs.

All of this comes, as well, in a bright raspberry print with deep raspberry sash.

Coming down to earth for a moment, Edith suggests a cotton pique hostess dress in bright pink with white field flowers blooming throughout. Cap sleeves, full skirt, back tie sash, $25.

Shorter duster-style robes have a lot of style for the price. Spin a full circle in a bright yellow cotton tent that's a complete — or maybe more — circle of fabric, high at the neck with no sleeves. Who ever heard of a tent with sleeves! Deeper yellow dots glow against the bright yellow. There's an elasticized belt, if you want to gather in the sheaves.

Boo! from Japan

The military strategist that stood brooding over the silk sheaths in the window of The English Shop has gone indoors to preside over the clothing racks, in case you missed him.

"He" is a complete suit of Japanese armor, once worn by a Samurai who lived about 1790 and now in the employ of Eric Mihan, who owns The English Shop and collects military miscellany.

The armor is made of heavy leather, some kind of metal—probably iron—and thick folds of cloth. Here and there on the various overlaps and folds that go to make up the armor, are patterns of embroidery, most of them severely geometric and military. There is a ferocious mustache that would scare an enemy as much as a brandished sword.

Mr. Mihan thinks the armor may have been used only for ceremonial occasions, because it isn't battle-scarred at all. Or, maybe this particular Samurai played it safe behind the front lines. Ask him to show you something in a Japanese raw silk, just for size.

Then, there's a nylon tricot tropical print shift in gold and green with a lot of sexy charm. It has slits up each side, and a gold braid belt, if you want to hold it in. $12.98.

For $9, Edith offers a white pique duster widely edged with royal or pink and sprinkled here and there with the same color.

In the lingerie drawer, the shop is showing a deep pink gown that is a miracle of engineering. It has a very deep, narrow V neck, front and back, with a close fit under the bosom and on each side, and swaying fullness front and back. An inside sheath lining governs all this trickery and keeps the gown together where it should be.

Travelers will pack the navy tricot pajama piped with red and covered with a matching robe that has a mandarin collar.

Another gown-robe set is designed for brides, with a deep border of copen and powder blue flowers sketched gently against the white of the full, waltz peignoir. The gown is white, without the flowers. $28 for the set.

Lily of France sends her brasselette, the famous "Merry Widow," in dacron and cotton with Lycra panels. Back is low, straps have been omitted, zipper goes down the front. In B and C cup sizes for $12.95.

Ball enters the field with a very light white lace bra that has an underpining of fibreglas instead of wire. $3.95.

Color is a big splash this spring, and Edith can supply you with primrose yellow girdles, bras, half or full slips, petti-pants. All these in pink or blue, too, and black or white, of course.

Getting back to those hostess robes . . . the thing that plagues us is, what can a host possibly wear if his wife is wearing one. Loafers and leather-elbowed tweed?

ROSES FOR DINNER

Stripes for Lunch. How can you resist amassing a place-mat library after you've been to the Princeton Gift Shop? The inventory in this Palmer Square shop includes . . .

Well, to start with, there's a linen mat with foam backing (one of those linens you just wipe off, but real linen). The print is a wonderful spring garden of purple, lilac and mauve zinnias and marigolds, big and all-over and cheerful.

Next is a mat of rich, textured (at least they look textured) stripes done in rust, brown and beige, horizontally across the mat. In laminated plastic, there is a golden basketweave oval rimmed with ripe, full-size peaches and complemented with matching paper napkins.

A closely planted garden of spring flowers in raspberry, mustard and geranium leaf green makes a vivid seasonal mat. And you can hardly wait to use the white mat with its five-inch strawberries, ripe against the cream. Napkins here, too.

Vera designs a linen mat with a deep charcoal ground and stretch and miss, than never to have reached at all. It took some courage to undertake "Rhinoceros." We salute the Players for that courage and wish them ever so much better luck next time.

FOUR BALLETS PLANNED

For Mid-May. The Princeton Ballet Society is rehearsing for the presentation of four ballets in McCarter Theatre next month. An evening performance will be given Saturday, May 18, with a matinee the following day.

On the program will be "Les Sylphides," "Festival of the Gnomes," "Pastel" and "Hour Glass." Tickets, ranging from $2 to $3.50 for the evening performance, and $2 to $2.75 for adults and $1 to $1.50 for children at the matinee, may be reserved by calling WA 4-3355.

Under the guidance of Andree Estey, the Ballet Society has been a part of the Princeton scene for the past decade. Last winter, it sponsored a benefit performance in McCarter by the American Ballet Theatre for the creation of the Princeton Regional Ballet.

The undertaking is designed to give young dancers from schools throughout the Princeton area an opportunity to participate in performances near professional level and to provide a workshop for choreographers in the dance field. The project is under the sponsorship of the Ballet Society.

COMEDY CHOSEN

For Spring Production. The Pennington Players have chosen the comedy "My Three Angels" by Sam and Bella Spewack for their spring production. Director Jose Gonzales and assistant director Jo Culler have selected the cast and rehearsals are under way.

In the role of the three convicts will be Hal Cooper as Joseph; Bill Holden as Alfred; and Dave Urban as Jules. Madame and Monsieur Ducotel will be played by Glenna Todd and Sam Crouse with Francine De Luce as their daughter, Marie Louise. Others in the cast are Al Meyers, Dave Burroughs, Nicholas Bayard and Judith Neese.

The producer is Stewart Chalifoux and his staff includes Penny Hoadley, stage manager; Carolyn Fitzcharles, business manager; Joyce Orton, properties; Jay Fortune, costumes; Pat Watt and Steve Friedman, set design; Sandy Jefferson, make-up; Leroy Van Dyke, lighting; Jacqueline Chalifoux, house committee, and Olivia Bayard, publicity.

The play, based on Albert Husson's "La Cuisine Des Anges," will be presented on May 17, 18, 24 and 25 at the Playhorn on West Franklin Avenue.

"LES POSSEDEES" NEXT

In French Film Series. The French Club of Princeton University will present "Les Possedees," a French film with English subtitles, Tuesday at 8:30 in McCarter Theatre. The admission charge will be 50 cents for students, University personnel and their wives, and 75 cents for others.

The picture was issued in 1956 with the English title "Passionate Summer," and was adapted from a play by Ugo Betti. The plot deals with three French women who live alone in the mountains of Haute Provence, and the jealousy and near-tragedy which occur following the arrival of a handsome Italian peasant.

PLAYHOUSE and PRINCE

Miracle of the White Stallions (now playing) is based on the autobiography of Col. Alois Podhajsky, director of Vienna's famous Spanish Riding School. In 1945, the colonel ignored Nazi orders and moved his celebrated Lipizzan stallions from Vienna to safety in upper Austria. He persuaded General George Patton to rescue the Lipizzan mares and foals from certain capture by the advancing Russians in Hostau, Czechoslovakia. The round up by horsemen and Patton's tanks is one of the most dramatic scenes in the film.

Robert Taylor, back in the movies after an absence of three years, plays the role of Col. Podhajsky; Lilli Palmer essays the role of his wife. Curt Jurgens is excellent at German General Tellheim, who is torn between friendship and loyalty to his army oath. Eddie Albert is Otto, head rider of the school, and James Franciscus, known to TV audiences for his appearances in "The Naked City," plays part of a courageous American officer, Major Hoffman. John Larch is Hollywood's idea of General Patton.

The brilliantly colored interior scenes were filmed in the white and gold Baroque hall of the Spanish Riding School, Vienna. The school is now the last outpost of classic riding left in the world. Comment: for all ages.

GARDEN

The Balcony (now playing) concerns madam Irma and her girls from the house of illusion. This is Jean Genet's erotic view of the world.

Shelley Winters stars as Irma, who stocks her brothel with exotic costumes, props and a versitile staff. She sells dreams to those unable to find them elsewhere.

Among her dreamers are a gas company employee who dons bishop's vestments, a milkman who becomes a magnificently uniformed general and listens to accounts of his valor recited by Irma's staff. There is also an accountant who puts on judicial robes and metes out justice to a dummy jury.

A political revolt rages in the streets and Irma tends the wounds of the battered police chief, played by Peter Falk. She lends him her bishop, general and chief justice for a public appearance to "prove" that the symbols of authority are still alive and present. The performers become flushed with success and refuse to relinquish their roles. The police chief draws his gun, but Irma has stocked it with blanks. So it goes. Comment: adult fare.

NEW TELEPHONE BUILDING: Sketch of proposed New Jersey Bell Telephone Company offices on Washington Road, half a mile east of Route One, where a ground-breaking ceremony will take place Thursday.

Topics Of The Town

TO BREAK GROUND

For Telephone Building. Officials from Princeton University and West Windsor Township will participate this Thursday in a ground-breaking ceremony for a new central office building of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company. The building will be located at Washington Road, one-half mile east of Route One.

Representing West Windsor will be Committeemen Francis J. Ward and Arthur R. Everett. Dr. J. H. Wallace Jr., director of Princeton's Forrestal Research Center, will assist in the ceremony. The proposed building will house a centrex communications system and other dial equipment to provide new services for area communities.

The system will service the university, permitting direct dialing to administration offices, the Forrestal Research Center and the Plasma Physics Laboratory. It will also allow users of extension phones in the university to dial outside calls without going through the main switchboard.

Designed by the Newark architectural firm of Frank Grad & Sons, the office building is scheduled for completion in the summer of 1964. It will be rectangular in shape, measuring 79 by 76 feet, and will be built of precast concrete frames, walls and roof.

The offices will also service customers in the Plainsboro exchange and in a portion of the Princeton exchange. William C. Ehret of Trenton is the contractor.

WOMAN IS JAILED

For Assaulting Her Father. A John Street woman was sentenced Monday to 30 days in the Mercer County Jail by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. for assaulting her father.

George S. McGowan, 78, 246 John Street, told police that his daughter, Mrs. Rhetta McGowan Hoagland, same address, had struck him on the head with a heavy bowl during an argument. The altercation occurred early Monday evening at their home.

for leaves outlined in lemon and orange.

Amber used to be higher in style than it has been in recent years. A revival is in progress, however, and Princeton Gift has some fine examples of modern amber lapidary work. There is a clear, faceted light amber necklace in the traditional style ($45) and a clear dark amber necklace, also faceted for $35.

But the contemporary note is here, too, in a necklace of polished, free-form chunks of amber, graduated in size just like the conventional form, and strung closely together with intervening gold protectors. ($35.)

A pair of drop earrings displays three unpolished free forms that swing pleasantly from a gold foundation. Another pair of earrings consists of two pieces of the unusual milky yellow amber, fashioned in the drop style.

If you're wondering about animal life, there are a few pieces with embedded forms, but most of them are vegetation. A bar pin, for example, is a free oblong of deep amber, its edges rounded smoothly, so that you can see the vegetation suspended inside. ($15).

Because the Princeton Gift Shop is a versatile place, you'll also find here, besides place mats and amber jewelry, a fine collection of oiled walnut accessory pieces. Seven-inch tall cylinders, three inches across, make magnificent bookends. A round-hipped mortar about six inches across, is pleasant to use just as is, and much too attractive to keep paper clips in.

GOAT MILK AND SHRIMP

Variety in Griggstown. In Griggstown, between the Millstone bridge and the country road, is a real, true country store — with a Norwegian accent. It's Tornquist's, a shop full of delicacies for gourmets and baby food for the kids and loaves of bread for people who run short Sunday morning.

The various ways of treating fish often appeal to our palates, for cocktail snacks, and the Norwegians are canny enough about American tastes to pack many delicacies for this purpose.

Just "for testing and tasting," there are the Gaffelbiter, herring tid-bits in either dill, tomato or onion sauce. Four of these little cans (two are onion) come in a wheel for $1. If you like a particular kind, you can buy it by itself next time.

Tiny shrimp, much smaller than any that are canned in this country, have been packaged in Norway for the American cocktail hour. Then there is a crab-meat paste which is different from the domestic variety, and tubes of caviar.

Want to try Norway's eels in jelly or smoked eels? Delicious! The lobster paste comes from Canada, and the special liver paste from Denmark.

Next to the tiny shrimp you'll find tiny meat-balls, small enough to enhance a tray of hot hors d'oeuvres. Standard size meat-balls, big enough to enhance a full dinner, are at Tornquist's, too.

With all this, you might like to serve the Norwegian flat bread, not a Rye-Krisp, but similar in a one-pound package. Who could possibly be THAT thin!

On the cheese counter is the pure goat - milk cheese, a most unusual food with a truly distinctive flavor quite different from blended cheese. In the package, you'll find 10 different cheese varieties, including things like crab flavored cheese, cheese with cognac, herring or carraway flavor.

Tornquist's has recently expanded its gift department, and in this part of the little store, you will find those fancy Scandinavian irons to make thin dessert pancakes and waffles. Ranged alongside are bright Swedish and Norwegian kitchen accessories, like breadboards and tiles, all painted with strong, primary Scandinavian colors.

The store is open daily from 9-6, and on Sundays from 9-1 and again from 3-6. Friday is "our day off" and the store is closed.

YOUR CARPET QUESTIONS

I once bought all-wool velvet pile carpeting and in over a year of constant (daily vacuuming the carpet never stopped pilling or shedding. Why is this, and how can I avoid it the next time?

Any velvet carpet that has to be sheared and has a deep pile will release loose yarn for quite a while. Although it is vacuumed at the mill it is much like getting a haircut. Your neck is brushed off but until you wash your hair to get rid of the short hairs, they would show up on your comb. The same applies to velvet carpet, except in a light weave it takes longer to get the imbedded loose yarn out. To avoid this you need to buy a light woven loop pile or the continuous filament nylon.

You Can't Park Here

"Here" in this case means on any Township street from 2 a.m. to 6 a.m.

The ordinance prohibiting overnight parking in the Township will be exposed to public hearing this Monday at 8 in Township Hall.

Township officials would like to have the ordinance for a number of reasons. For one thing, Borough residents forbidden to park at home, have been sneaking over the line to park overnight in the Township. For another, the engineer's office could plow away the snow and clean away the dirt much more easily if there were no cars in the way.

And finally, Township police would like to have an unobstructed view of suspicious vehicles. If overnight parking were forbidden, then a car parked at 3 a.m. would be open to suspicion and easy to keep under surveillance.

AN EASTER EGG TREE FOR PRINCETON HOSPITAL: The pediatrics ward of Princeton Hospital will receive this Easter Egg Tree through the efforts of Princeton High School's chapter of the Junior Red Cross. At left is Patricia Brackney, president of the High School's Red Cross Council, with Mrs. Beatrice Rich, teacher and sponsor of the Red Cross activities. The tree was just one of many Easter projects undertaken by Junior Red Cross members for hospital patients in the Princeton area. (Alan Richards Photo)

Mrs. Hoagland, in turn, filed an assault charge against her father. He pleaded not guilty. Magistrate Toms suspended sentence but ordered him to pay $10 court costs. Mrs. Hoagland also pleaded not guilty.

In traffic court, Mrs. Jean H. Gustafson, 35, 23 N. Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell, was fined $19 for speeding. For operating an unregistered vehicle, John M. Churchill, 19, 252 Snowden Lane, was fined $15. Each pleaded guilty.

BARGAINS IN BOOKS

33rd Sale Set. Nearly 4,000 second hand books are on hand for the 33rd annual Bryn Mawr College Benefit Book Sale, to be held Wednesday through Friday, April 24-26, at Second Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Oakes Ames is chairman and Mrs. Gilbert Nicol assistant chairman. Volunteers are under the direction of Mrs. Ernest Lynton and Mrs. John B. Hughes. Mrs. Richard Gillespie is publicity chairman.

The book sale, which raised $190 in 1931, netted more than $3,400 last year. The proceeds have given scholarship assistance to more than 35 girls from the area. Current scholarship holders are Carol Armstrong and Catherine deGrazia. Plans now call for aid to prospective freshmen.

Anyone wishing to donate books should call Mrs. Edward D. Arms, WA 4-3906; Mrs. Arthur Sherwood, WA 1-6724, Mrs. Alan Carrick, WA 4-2398, or Mrs. Nicol, WA 1-6074.

DECORATED FOR EASTER

By Junior Red Cross. Members of the Junior Red Cross, including kindergarten through 12th grade students, are completing various Easter projects for patients in area hospitals.

More than 1300 Easter baskets will be delivered to the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute, Princeton Hospital, Walson Army Hospital, Fort Dix and six nursing homes. Junior Red Cross groups will also give small parties for patients.

The pediatrics ward of Princeton Hospital will be the recipient of an Easter egg tree, 5 ft. 5 in. high, and decorated with painted eggs. The tree was made by 30 members of the Princeton High School Junior Red Cross during a workshop period on Friday mornings.

Women in an open cottage at the Neuro-Psychiatric Institute will receive 40 bonnets made of paper and scrap materials. These bonnets will be placed in decorated boxes, as a project of another area school.

CENTER PLANNED

For Library Week. The Friends of the Princeton Public Library will celebrate National Library Week, April 22 to 26, with a "Public Library Information Center" at 76 Nassau Street. The location is the former address of the University Cleaners.

The center will be open Monday through Friday from 10 to 5 and all residents are welcome. With some 460 members, the organization will use the center as a temporary headquarters.

The information center will also offer an opportunity for residents to learn more about their library. Exhibits illustrated by photographs and other materials will be displayed along with children's books and notable works of the past year.

Lastly, the center will provide a clearing house for questions and answers about the present library building program. The library has requested community support to modernize and expand its facilities.

BANQUET WEDNESDAY

For Pennington Y Group. The annual Father and Son Banquet of the Pennington YMCA will be held Wednesday at 6:15 p.m. at the Central High School Cafeteria.

illustrated talk on Indian lore and perform feats of magic. The dinner is open to all fathers and sons of the community. Those planning to attend should see Thomas Mooney, 7 West Welling Avenue, before Monday for reservations.

FOCUS: THE COMMUNITY

Planning Board Reports. When the Township Planning Board issued it "first annual" report last month, its members emphasized that, although they were Township officials, they were considering "The Princeton Community" as a unit.

In the latest series of reports, the Board refers again to this single-community concept, in discussions of commercial and institutional land, open space and roads.

The annual report's rock-bottom premise was that the Princeton Community was to be an educational-research center, not merely a shopping hub for surrounding towns. And yet, the new "Commercial" and "Institutional" land reports reflect the tension between these two concepts of what a municipality should be.

For example, the "Commercial" report shows that, in 1959, the consumption of goods within the Borough amounted to 113.5 percent of the income of the Borough's inhabitants. This indicates, not that Borough residents were living beyond their income, but that the Borough has a powerful attraction for consumers who live outside its lines — people who come to Nassau Street to spend and buy.

Total Borough retail sales almost doubled between 1948 and 1958. (There is another side to this statistic, however: the Planning Board remarks that, with improved transportation and merchandising techniques, probably a great many Princeton dollars are spent outside Princeton in places like New York.)

Using Borough figures, because no precise Township figures are available, the Township planners sketch out the Princeton Community's economic picture in the 1949-59 decade.

Incomes Double In Decade. Median family income in the Borough almost doubled between 1950 and 1960. In 1949, median family income was $4,857 and in 1959, $8,833. In 1949, 64.4 percent of Borough families had incomes of less than $6,000. By 1959, this percentage had dropped to 28. In 1949, 13 percent had incomes higher than $10,000. In 1959, 43 percent had incomes above that figure.

The total Princeton Community income for 1950 was 23.5 million dollars; in 1960, 48.5 million, or an increase of 106 percent in one decade.

In All Its Glory

A tousle of pansies,
An aster or two,
A bright pink azalea,
A peony blue.
Good heavens! What kind
Of a garden is that?
Who said it's a garden?
It's my Easter hat!

—LILY N. BLUM

The late Easter this year has allowed both April and Milady plenty of time to deck themselves with appropriate springtime finery. Now if the Weather Man will only cooperate . . .

He has that in mind, he reports, somewhat hurt that his intentions should be questioned. Showers are possible Friday, but a mild, generally fair weekend is in store.

Commercially, the report states that the Princeton Community must be considered a single, economic entity centered on Nassau Street. That is where this money is spent; however, the Township planners foresee that, with construction of the proposed Route 92 and an improved Lincoln Highway, the Township will be more accessible than it is now.

There will be a real demand for more commercial space: small neighborhood stores, specialized automobile services (car washes?) and probably even more shopping center facilities "at a respectable distance from the Borough center."

Bigger Shopping Center. The Planning Board believes that the Township should have, in addition to the commercial development that now exists, a bigger Princeton Shopping Center, expanded north toward Terhune; new "neighborhood" or loaf-of-bread shopping clusters in the area next to Kingston, on Route 206 in the northern part of the Township now zoned for "services" and near the intersection of the southern loop road and Princeton Pike.

At the other end of the spectrum, there is the "institutional" land in the Township. This includes schools, the hospital — institutions which any community would have — and such establishments as the Columbus Boychoir school, the new Sacred Heart school and, so important that it is given a separate category, the University.

"Reflecting on the tax base," the report comments, "it becomes definitely apparent that one of the major considerations of the Planning Board is to relate institutional land, with its lack of tax income, to the total need for revenue throughout the Township."

If "externally induced" facilities like the Boychoir or Sacred Heart schools—wish to move to the Township, they should either be excluded completely, or allowed in only by a payment made in lieu of taxes. Land rules being what they are, however, the planners do not anticipate a rush of new schools or similar enterprises.

With an eye on the University's continued expansion, the Planning Board assumes that the University will need about 20 additional dwelling units per year for its growing staff. The Board would like to see a revised procedure for University construction, with improvements to the University related to the overall campus plan, and not tied to a municipal zoning policy designed for small uses, like single-family homes.

The Board would also like to work out a detailed set of standards for all the profit and non-profit research institutions that tend to cluster around the University.

In a lay-it-on-the-line statement, the Planning Board comments on the commerce versus education pull in the Princeton Community: "Private development must occur at a rate sufficient to balance the non-paying institutional uses, or private property owners must assume responsibility for increasing taxes."

Cory S. Kammler

An acquaintance remarked that it is odd that Death Valley, 276 feet below sea level, the lowest point in the U.S., is so close to the highest point, Mount Whitney (14,495 ft. high) that you can stand at the lowest point and see the top of the highest point. Alaska has several higher mountains though, with Mt. McKinley (20,300 ft.) the highest one in North America. Of course the highest point in the world is in Asia, Mt. Everest, with an altitude of 29,141 feet. It was not scaled until 1953, when a party of English and Nepalese climbers reached its zenith. Mountain climbing started in about 1850, when English sportsmen organized clubs for systematic climbing of the Alps. Today there are more than 250,000 enrolled in the various Alpine Societies in Europe, and perhaps another 50-75,000 members of mountain climbing clubs in North America. They say that once you experience the exhilaration of mountain climbing the sport has you "hooked." Conquering the summit of a mountain must bring the kind of buoyant feeling you can experience when you have been really well served and obtained a true bargain. This is the place to get that feeling! Please come in soon. Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

The Official Ward: "Separate That Garbage!"

The garbage situation in Princeton has been getting out of hand—and out of flimsy cardboard containers into the streets. Besides, householders have been neglecting the "separate-your-garbage" rule and tossing beer cans in with the orange peel.

Therefore, be it resolved:

- Bottles and cans must be separated from garbage. Both must be put into watertight metal or plastic containers.
- Garbage that isn't separated in this way will not be picked up, either in the Borough or in the Township.
- Garbage, bottles or cans put into cardboard containers or baskets will not be picked up, either.
- Borough residents must put both containers—bottles and garbage—at the curb on the regular collection days, and take them away as soon as possible after the garbage truck has emptied them.
- The Borough collection schedule:

GARBAGE: For homes west of Witherspoon, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; east of Witherspoon, Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays.

CANS AND BOTTLES: West of Witherspoon, Thursdays; east of Witherspoon, Wednesdays.

When glass bottles and metal cans are thrown into the incinerator with the garbage, the capacity of the incinerator is reduced by one-third, according to the Borough engineer's office, because, at the incinerator's temperature of 2200 degrees, the melted glass and metal form a conglomerate, clogging mass.

Doll Dress Contest Set. Little girls who make their own doll clothes are invited to dress and enter their dolls in a contest to be held at the June 8 Princeton Hospital Fete. Mrs. Sidney Blaxill and Mrs. Peter Lawson-Johnson are chairmen of the Children's Committee.

Young seamstresses will be divided according to age group, pre-school through second grade, and from third through eighth grade. The doll-judging contest will be held in the children's tent on the day of the Fete, and prizes will be awarded.

The committee urges all small girls in the area to begin work at once preparing their dolls' costumes.

Nomination Seconded.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to second the motion regarding Peter Kline's letter about Mr. Wandelt. As one looks over all his efforts for the youth of Princeton, I think he is a deserving nominee for man of the week. He has always been jolly and fun while generous and unselfish with help and advice.

BRIAN CONSIDINE

Ginkgo Hill, Kingston

A High School Senior's View.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am a senior at Princeton High School, and would like to express my reaction to Mr. Malchup's ideas on education. ("TOWN TOPICS" "Man of the Week," April 4.) He advocates a "ten-year curriculum with youngsters entering kindergarten at four" and the placing of greater demands upon the students.

I do not think that it is a question of increasing the demands made upon the students, but rather one of reorganizing the curriculum, particularly at the junior high level, with an eye to cutting down on the amount of time wasted due to repetition.

For example, I took general science courses in sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth grades, all of which covered essentially the same material. Math is another area particularly open to abuse in this way—my entire seventh grade math course was a review of what we had learned previously, and I shudder to think what happened to those of us who did not have an opportunity to take algebra in eighth grade.

I personally have a hard time meeting all the demands made upon me now, and I know the same is true of many of my classmates. Over Easter vacation I have no less than three English books (including "Crime and Punishment") and two French books (including over 200 pages of Proust) to read, not to mention a history book.

And they should increase the demands? Ha!

Registration will be open to all registered Brownies and Scouts in the Princeton area in grades two through six until June 1. After that date, registrations from non-scouts will be accepted. Applications may be sent to Mrs. Henry J. Frank, Box 104.

FUND RAISER: Mrs. Thomas Page of Lawrenceville, who last year received Mount Holyoke College's rare Medal of Honor, will serve as chairman of the New Brunswick-Haddonfield area of the college's "Fund for the Future" campaign.

You Can't Plant Here

Community Gardens used to be just that. Since the days when people planted Victory Gardens with Swiss chard and tomatoes, the land behind Township Hall on Route 206 has been available to any man with a hoe who felt like hoeing.

No longer. The Township hopes to start work this spring on its Community Gardens recreation land, and anybody who plants Kentucky Wonder beans will find that a bulldozer has done some plowing for him.

The moral being that you can sow wild oats if you want to, but the Township will just reap them up.

NINE LOSE LICENSES

PRINCETON'S FIRST TELEPHONE OFFICE was installed in 1884 within this curious pleasure dome, called the University Hotel. Situated at the corner of Nassau and University Place, the hotel contained more than 100 rooms and at its opening was advertised as "elegant, luxurious and first class in every respect." But, failing to make the grade as a hotel, it soon became an off-campus dormitory which "during its 40 years in that capacity acquired an unrivalled tradition for riotous scenes." Small wonder that in 1898 the telephone company moved its switchboard across Nassau Street to a quieter location.

NUMBER, PLEASE? ONE

1909 Phone Book Discovered. To telephone the residence of M. Taylor Pyne, Princeton benefactor and owner of its most lordly estate, all you would have had to do in 1909 was to pick up the phone, wait for the operator to ask, "Number, plecuz?" and then say, "One". To reach the almost equally impressive Marquand mansion, you said, "Seven."

These and other intriguing bits of telephonic memorabilia of Princeton have just come to light from a 1909 directory which is owned by Elmer W. Dietz, manager of the Princeton telephone office. Mr. Dietz was recently given the book by a friend who is a bibliophile and collector of first editions.

A study of the early directory reveals much about both Princeton and its phone service, then and now. For example, in 1909 there were only 700 Princeton subscribers to the service. Today there are approximately 18,000 numbers in the Princeton area which can be dialled without toll charge, about 26 times as many as in 1909.

The listings for Smiths, incidentally, have increased in almost the same proportion — there were five then, 156 today.

A Hotel Was Home. A little research into the history of Princeton's telephone service reveals that the first telephone company switchboard was set up in the University Hotel, a magnificent pile of architectural gimcrackery, located on the corner of Nassau Street and Railroad Avenue (now University Place). Installation was made in 1884, a scant eight years after Alexander Graham Bell invented the instrument.

The first Trenton district directory, issued in 1893, listed three Princeton subscribers, of whom one, George R. Cook, was the uncle of the present board chairman of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company, George R. Cook III, and of Edmund D. Cook, Princeton realtor.

Steady Growth. In 1893 the telephone company moved to a location above Marsh's drug store. The move coincided with an increase of staff to four: two women operators by day; a boy operator, one Fatty Wagner, by night; and a serviceman.

Despite temporary competition from another company which was organized locally and which was headquartered in the University library, the Bell telephone office continued to prosper. In 1908 it installed the latest model switchboard in its quarters above Marsh's, did away with all crank-model telephones in Princeton, and extended its service to the 700-station capacity of its switchboard.

Gone from the Princeton scene and from the telephone book today are such impressive 1909 listings as the pay phone in President (of Princeton, then) Wilson's office, the number for the Nassau Shaving Parlor and the Imperial Barber Shop. Long gone, too, is that palace of heartburn, the Majestic Quick Lunch (call 89 and ask for Joe).

But some of the names in that 1909 directory are still very much in evidence in the 1963 book, even to keeping an approximation of their old telephone number. Lyons Meat Market was, as it is now, at 8 Nassau Street. Its telephone number in 1909 was 89. Today it is WA 4-0089. Matthews Construction Company had the number 182; now it is WA 4-0182. The Henry Norris Russell home was then and still is at 79 Alexander Street. The phone number has merely been expanded from 404 to WA 4-0404.

In addition to containing soothing instructions for the timid on how to use a phone ("Do not replace the telephone on the hook until the conversation is finished"), the 1909 book also lists the toll rates to certain points.

The toll from Princeton to Boston was then $1.50, compared with 85 cents today. To Chicago it was a flat $5 for three minutes Now it is $1.45 during the day. And for $1 tops you can now call Chicago or any other place you want to within the continental United States from 9 p.m. to 4.30 a.m.

LEGION DONATES $100

To First Aid Squad. Princeton Post 76, American Legion, has given a check for $400 to De Witt Boice, president of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. The money, raised from among the legion membership for this express purpose, will be used as part of the Rescue Squad's building fund.

The presentation of the check was part of the legion's special program called "Past Commanders' Night." The gift was made to the squad through the legion's ways and means committee.

The meeting of the Legion was attended by a number of Post 76 past commanders. Two members, Innocenzo Venta and James Whitlow, took part in the program by describing the early session which led to the formation of Post 76. Both of the men, veterans of World War I, were among the signers of the post's charter in 1919.

Also at the meeting were three of the recent delegates which Post 76 sent to the annual Boy's State, held on the Rutgers University campus. The three, David Hayler, James Wallace and Brian Smithey, gave accounts of their attendance at Boy's State, a program of the State American Legion at which a model government is formed, and through which a better understanding is gained of the workings of the democratic form of government.

GOING BACK in Town Topics

FIVE YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, April 10, 1958: Borough-wide enforcement of speeding laws, offering as many surprises as "the weather did over the Easter holidays" (it had been the rainiest Easter in 75 years), was promised by Acting Police Commissioner Dan D Coyle at the previous Tuesday's meeting of Mayor and Council.

Indicative of the municipality's efforts to "spot-zone" its streets was the boxscore showing the street locations for the 28 speeding motorists snagged by police during the preceding month. On Mercer Street, that perennial branch of the Trenton Speedway, only one automotive guided missile had been brought down.

The Aqueduct area of Carnegie Lake was once again the center of attention in a spectacular missing persons case. Taking turns, some 30 members of the Princeton Rescue Squad had trolled for 14 hours that Monday and Tuesday in search of the body of a missing man, Jacob J. Mayer, manager of a Hamilton Square A&P store.

Although the body had been found by the following week, the suspected murderers were still to remain at large five years later, with police unceasingly continuing their efforts to identify the killers.

As the 1958 major league baseball season opening drew near, TOWN TOPICS' "Question of the Week" asked a sample of Princetonians to pick the eventual pennant winners. Correct prognosticators in selecting both the Yanks and the Braves included haberdasher Jim Lahey; patrolman (now lieutenant) Frank J. Maguire; tavern proprietor Bud Tash, and 11-year-old Jim Grove, then a 6th grade student at Valley Road School and a member of Hulit's Yankees in the "Y" Midget League.

TEN YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, April 9, 1953: In a 20-page issue (today's issue, by way of comparison, is 48) TOWN TOPICS announced the appointment of the six men chosen to serve on the Joint Consolidation Committee which, in the next 90 days, was to create a broad plan to guide the possible merger of Borough and Township.

Representing the Borough on the committee were: Charles T. Cowenhoven Jr., retired attorney; Joseph J. Redding, former Borough Council member, Norvell B. Samuels, at that time business manager and acting director of the Princeton University Press.

The township selections were: Raymond A. Bowers, Princeton contractor; attorney Ralph S. Mason; James A. Perkins, vice-president of the Carnegie Foundation in New York (and, in 1963, newly-elected president of Cornell University).

A volunteer at the Ground Observer Corps cabin picked up the telephone to report a plane to the Trenton Filter Center, gave the standard report: "Aircraft flash!" A pinch-hitting operator in Trenton, unfamiliar with the routine and understandably weary after hours of extra service, asked, "What am I supposed to do — take cover?"

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

TOWN TOPICS, April 8, 1948: Nominated as "Princeton's Women of the Week" were the 26 members of the Princeton Hospital Volunteers, who had devoted 1800 hours of service to the hospital during the preceding year By 1963, these figures were to increase to 200 senior members and 85 junior members, who gave a year's total of 22,011 hours to hospital volunteer duty.

Among the April 8, 1948, issue's total of just seven classified ads was this earnest claim by the Swedish Massage Studio: "You'll be more chic if you are less span."

A PERFECT DAY FOR BANANAFISH: And a perfect day for fishermen, but not such a good day for trout. The season opened with a splash on Saturday, and plenty of fishermen were out early to bring in the catch. Stony Brook was heavily patronized, as this picture near the Stockton Street bridge shows. ART
In Princeton

SHOW AT PRESENT DAY

Paintings by Mrs. Bonotto. Throughout April, the Present Day Club will show paintings by Constance Bonotto who, in the 25 years she has been a resident of Princeton, has made a quiet and far-reaching contribution to the interest in and appreciation of art in the community.

For a decade as instructor at Princeton Country Day School, she has aroused curiosity and an inclination to learn the fundamentals of painting in many young boys who have automatically called her "Sir." At the YWCA, she has conducted "friendly classes" of adults who enjoy painting and work earnestly at it with her. On fair days, it is a familiar sight to see Mrs Bonotto and her group working "al fresco" down by the old red mill or along the lake

Native of Turin. Although her first experience in teaching was in Princeton, Mrs. Bonotto, a native Italian, graduated as full professor of art from the University of Turin and was a pupil of C Guarlotti, one of Italy's foremost Impressionist painters early in the century Her son, Sergio Bonotto, who has known and encouraged his mother's paintings for a long time, aptly describes her current exhibition as representing "a variety of subjects as seen from a non-modern point of view, reminiscent of a more leisurely and more contemplative age."

HOW TO COPY A BOOK: Reference works that cannot be taken out of the Princeton Public Library may be duplicated on this new photo-copying machine now available to all comers at the library. Three committee chairmen of the Friends of the Public Library celebrate Library Week by watching Miss Margaretta Barr, librarian, operate the machine. (Left to right) Mrs. Frank Taplin, Mrs. Arthur L. Keiser and Mrs. Peter Carter. (Staff Photo)

The "variety of subjects" consists almost entirely of small landscapes which Mrs. Bonotto modestly refers to as her "stamps;" scenes of Italy and Bermuda and from other travels near and far from Princeton. Her nostalgia for the Italian Alps, so long her home, draws her irrisistibly toward the view with mountain and water wherever she goes Her latest picture, "Blawenburg Pond" with the wind blowing softly over the spring fields, is outlined in the distance by the Sourland Mountains, not as majestic as her Alpine crests in many of her canvases but just as essential in this Hunterdon County composition.

"I like to put down what I see and how I feel about it," she says. Her style, she thinks, is perhaps too "accurate" and a "little old-fashioned" for the young, but it is the way she wishes to record her impressions

She paints for pleasure; for the pleasure she finds in working and for the pleasure of the resulting "souvenir" of the place she has known. It is in this very detail she uses that she often finds the clues to her reminiscenses

Mushrooms. Mrs. Bonotto has the famous Italian love of nature and its small unexpected gifts. A tiny and humorous picture called "Mushrooms" prompts her to comment, "If you have never gone hunting for mushrooms, you have missed a pleasure."

Evidently you must never look in the same place twice. They hide, or disappear completely, only to pop up elsewhere. "You must surprise them!" This gay colony of sturdy mushrooms Mrs. Bonotto surprised, one or two at a time, used them as models and then ate them. Perhaps another title for this woodland piece could be "Buon Appetito!"

Among the Italian scenes, there is one miniature-sized picture, "Church Entry," which is filled with the sun she loves so to paint. Sunlight warm on the facade and shadows cool beneath the arches make just a brief but poignant suggestion of what we, too, remember of the incomparable Italian atmosphere somewhere in our own memeory.

Character Study. Another type of recollection is shown in "Study of an Old Man" done in Italy when she was working under Guarlotti. This is a charcoal drawing overlaid with color and notable because of the character caught in the expression of a face almost eclipsed by a full white beard but alive with wisdom and humor from a glint in the moist eyes and a twist to the lips.

Mrs. Bonotto's family teases her about her kind of "spring fever," for with April comes a yearning to explore and to learn something new. This summer she is planning a trip to Portugal where she hopes to search out a remote fishing village where she can paint her mountains and water and the unusual Venetian-like boats she has heard about. We hope this serious and enthusiastic painter will include among her future "souvenirs" some more of the lovely landmarks of Old Princeton, fast disapearing under the euphemistic title "Progress."

WATER COLORS ON VIEW

At McCarter. Members of the water coloring class of the Adult School will exhibit their work in McCarter Theatre for two weeks, beginning this Thursday.

Mrs. Robert Serrell of Lovers Lane is the teacher for the ten-week course. She is a member of the Adult School Committee, and an art instructor in the Franklin Township schools

BOYCHOIR TO PERFORM

With Princeton Symphony. The Columbus Boychoir of Princeton will share the McCarter stage with the Princeton Symphony in the symphony's final concert of its 12th season on Monday at 8:30 p.m.

Directed by Donald T. Bryant, who received his master's degree at the Juilliard School of Music, the Boychoir has performed with Arturo Toscanini's NBC Symphony, the New York Philharmonic and the Bach Aria Group.

Since moving to Princeton in 1950, the choir has traveled extensively in the United States and Canada and has made a tour of South America under the auspices of the U. S. State Department.

The choir's appearance at the opening night of Philharmonic Hall at the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York was televised last September by CBS.

Debussy's "La Demoiselle Elue" and Bartok's "Six Songs for Treble Voices" will be the program choices for the choir in its joint concert with the Princeton Symphony. Singing with the choir in the Debussy work, which was set from the poem by Rossetti, "The Blessed Damozel," will be Rachel Armstrong, wife of Donald Armstrong of Cranbury, and Joanna Richard.

Mrs. Armstrong, a mezzo-soprano, was previously a soloist with the Princeton Symphony in performances of Verdi's "Requiem" and Roger Sessions' "Trial of Lucullus." Miss Richard, a soprano, is a teacher at the Westminster Choir College, where she received her master's degree in 1959.

A ROUSING FINALE: The 70-voice Columbus Boychoir will be featured Monday in the final concert of the Princeton Symphony. Above are (from left) Steven Bryant, David Carter and John Kelsall, all of Princeton. The concert will be held at 8:30 p.m. at the McCarter Theatre. (Photo by Alan Richards)

Also on the program will be the premiere of Littlebrook School teacher Arno Safran's "Three Statements for Orchestra" and Beethoven's "Creatures of Prometheus." Nicholas Harsanyi will conduct the symphony.

Tickets for the concert are now available at the Princeton University Store and will be on sale at McCarter the day of the concert.

WEINRICH TO PLAY

This Sunday Afternoon. Carl Weinrich will give an organ recital in the University Chapel Sunday at 3:30. His program will include works by Frescobaldi, Cavazzoni, Gabrieli, Cabezon, Buxtehude, Couperin, Lubesk and Bach.

The organist's second Bach album was released in March by the Readers' Digest-RCA Victor Record Club. This summer, he will make further recordings for the club.

SCHOLARSHIP OFFERED

At Choir College. Westminster Choir College, through its president, Dr. Lee H. Bristol, Jr., has announced two $500 awards in voice and organ, and a $1,000 scholarship for a pianist. Applications are being accepted, and auditions will be held at the College on Saturday, May 11.

The voice award has been named in honor of Walter E. Johnson, professor emeritus and former chairman of the voice department, and the organ award honors Alexander McCurdy, chairman of the organ department.

Both are open to residents of the Pennsylvania counties of Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Philadelphia. They are sponsored by Krine Westhoven of Philadelphia for students entering the college in 1963.

The scholarship in piano is open to any resident of the United States under 21 who plans to enter the college in 1963. It is named for Arthur Judson, director of Columbia Artists Management, Inc., and a member of the College's board of trustees from 1944 to 1958. He was chairman of the board betwen 1950 and 1958.

The recipient of the scholarship will serve as accompanist for the College's chapel choir.

Dr. McCurdy has been chairman of the organ department since 1940 and a teacher at Curtis Institute, Philadelphia, since 1934. Among his former students are Robert Baker, Richard Purvis, George Markey, Robert Ellis, Thomas Schippers, Donald McDonald and David Craighead.

Mr. Johnson was chairman of the College's voice department from 1946 to 1960, and started the music department at Episcopal Academy, Philadelphia. He served as chairman of the music department at the Church Farm School, Philadelphia. At present, he is organist at the First Church of Christ Scientist, Princeton.

CHORAL FESTIVAL SET

By Choir College. The Westminster Choir College of Princeton will sponsor its Annual Choral Festival of Sacred Music, to be held in the auditorium at Ocean Grove on Saturday, May 18. Announcement of plans for the concert has been made by Dr. Lee H. Bristol, Jr., president of the college.

PRINCETON GOAL—BUT TOO LATE: Attackman Jim Okie pictured in the act of launching a shot at Johns Hopkins cage in lacrosse game at Baltimore Saturday. The ball found the mark, but the goal merely narrowed the final margin as Tigers lost, 15 to 8. (Photo by Tom Miner)

SPORTS In Princeton

ARMY-NAVY DAY

In Baseball, Lacrosse. Two Princeton teams will know before sundown Saturday whether early indications of superior ability are for real, or just a mirage. In each case, the determining factor will be one of the nation's two major service institutions.

Army's baseball team, usually one of the top entries in the Eastern Intercollegiate League, will face an improved Tiger nine on Clarke Field at 2:30. Simultaneously, on adjacent Finney Field, Navy's national lacrosse champions will meet a well-regarded Princeton team and the two-ring circus is expected to keep a sizeable crowd of spectators deeply interested.

The sports fan who really wants to command a view of spring athletics in full blast will climb to the top of the east side of Palmer Stadium. From there, he can view the Columbia-Princeton track meet (starting time, 2 o'clock), as well as the baseball and lacrosse games on the fields stretching out below the Stadium.

For those who prefer a sunny afternoon on the banks of Carnegie, there are six crew races. The 150-lb. regatta between Columbia and Princeton will begin at 2:45 with a freshman race, the jayvees and varsities following at 15 minute intervals.

At 4:20, the freshman heavyweight crews of Rutgers and Princeton will leave the stake boats, with the junior varsities rowing at 4:40 and the varsities at 5. The 150-lb. crews will race the mile and 5/16ths course; the heavy crews, a mile and ¾.

Rounding out as full a schedule as the spring season can offer are golf and tennis. A triangular match among Colgate, Lehigh and Princeton will begin at 1:30 on Springdale's links, while at 2:30 Navy and Princeton will meet in tennis on the Brokaw courts.

Navy Favored in Lacrosse. A rugged Navy team may be more than Princeton can handle in lacrosse, but the middies will have a busy afternoon proving it. A long, delayed bus ride to Baltimore was a handicap to the Tigers last weekend before they took the field against Johns Hopkins, and they came home a 15-8 victim of the wheed-up Bluejays.

Princeton moved out quickly to a 2-1 lead, but could not maintain the pace. It was 6-2 for Hopkins at the half, and the home team added to its margin steadily after the intermission.

Tiger Nine Steadier. After winning only seven games during the entire 1962 season, Princeton's baseball team took three of its first four last week. Biggest factor was topflight pitching by southpaw Gerry Skey, but timely hitting and fielding much steadier than it was a year ago were also welcome signs of a brighter year.

Following his four-hitter that beat Temple, 10-1, in the opener, Skey (rhymes with "sea") beat Colgate, 5 to 2, on Saturday. He gave up both runs in the second, and over the last seven innings, yielded but three hits. With any sort of support, he has the ability to lead Princeton over the .500 mark this year.

A frigid, wind-blown afternoon was the setting Thursday for a 17-8 rout at the hands of Fordham. Senior Tom Schoolwerth was in trouble on the mound from the beginning, and the Tigers were not in contention after the third frame.

The contest with Maine next day was likewise somewhat wooly at the edges, but this time, Princeton prevailed, 14 to 10. The visitors committed ten errors while Eddie Donovan's forces sparkled in comparison by playing errorless ball.

Paul Lahti's middle relief stint of five innings made him the victor over Maine. In the first four games, however, only Lahti and Skey showed that they have the pitching ability requisite to winning baseball.

Princeton hitting produced a total of 36 safeties in the three victories over Temple, Maine and Colgate, with a couple of outfielders the most impressive. Blake Stafford and Larry Schoenfeld have been pounding the ball at a very solid clip: against Maine, for example, Stafford was three for four, Schoenfeld four for five and they batted in seven runs between them.

Others who have been consistent at the plate are Captain Don Fudge and first baseman Vic Woolley. The Tigers were scheduled to go to Villanova Wednesday and will meet New Hampshire here Friday at 2:30 in the first game between the two universities.

Crew Inexperienced. Victories in golf, track and tennis should come Princeton's way this weekend. In no case does the opposition appear to have enough to top well-balanced Princeton entries.

There is some possibility, however, that Rutgers might upset the crew—Princeton will start four sophomores and is markedly short of experience. Last April, the Tigers led the Scarlet across the finish line to record their first victory on the water in four years, but the margin was less than a length.

LITTLE TIGERS TRIUMPH

In Baseball Opener. Behind the four hit pitching of Jack Rosso, the Princeton High School baseball team won its opening game of the season Friday. It defeated Cathedral High School, 6-2, at Trenton's Wetzel Field.

"I was pleased with the team's showing," said PHS coach Harry Zoll. "I said before the season started if we got some pitching, we'd win. We did. It was as simple as that."

The Little Tigers will play their fourth game and second home contest Wednesday afternoon. At 3:30 they will en-

CHECK TERMITE DAMAGE
Every year at this time, homeowners find winged insects that suddenly fly out and then drop their wings and crawl all around. These insects are termites and indicate that there are thousands of other termites still eating the house causing further destruction to the wood of the house. Sports In Princeton gage B.M.L., a school they will be meeting only the second time. Last year's initial contest between the two was a wild affair. Princeton finally lost it, 14-13.

In upending Cathedral, PHS managed only two more hits than the losers, but took solid advantage of six Cathedral errors. Princeton's defense, on the other hand, was much tighter. Neither of its errors were on batted balls. One was a throwing error by shortstop Dave Muni and the second was a pickoff attempt that first baseman Jimmy Case let get by.

Two sophomores, second baseman Ken Ward and catcher Paul Walstad, garnered four of Princeton's six hits. Case and captain Ray Britton rapped out the other two.

The visiting Blue and White took the lead in the first inning and never relinquished it. To get its first two runs, PHS combined two singles, a base on balls, a fielder's choice and a stolen base. It then added another pair of runs in the fifth inning and single runs in the third and sixth.

Stemmle Relieves. After pitching fine ball for six innings, Rosso's arm began to tire. He has been bedded by the flu the week before and was not even slated to start. Tom Stemmle came on for the final two outs.

He got Rich Schutts swinging on a 3-2 count with the bases loaded for the final out. "It was a good way to end the game," said Zoll.

Zoll, in recapping the contest, said that he got hitting, fielding and pitching from his players. "When you get all three like that in a single game, it is pretty safe to say you are going to win," he concluded.

PHS IS HOST THURSDAY

To Highland Park Trackmen. The Princeton High School track team will seek to make it two victories in a row this Thursday afternoon at 3, when it plays host to Highland Park High School. It won't be easy for the Little Tigers.

PHS coach Jerry Groninger reported that Highland Park has a state champion hurdler and another team member who can throw the javelin 200 feet and the shot, 48 feet. Between the two of them, they ought to take five first places, Jerry reported.

If Princeton can score in the 100, 220 and 440 — its strongest events — then Groninger thinks his team has a chance to eke out its second victory. "But if they've picked up a sprinter, we're in trouble," he continued. The visitors defeated Princeton last year, 64-53.

As it is, Groninger reported that he believes his team will do better against Highland Park than it will against New Brunswick. The Blue and White will entertain New Brunswick at home Wednesday afternoon at 3:30. Aided by his little black book, Groninger could report that New Brunswick has three sprinters who can do the 100 under 10 seconds.

Steinert Falls. The Little Tigers won their opening dual meet of the season on Friday, defeating visiting Steinert, 77-40. Though the two schools virtually were equal in first place achievements, PHS scored heavily in second and third place positions to win easily. "It was a team victory," said Groninger. Evidence of this was the fact that PHS did not have a single double winner during the afternoon.

Victory tasted sweet to Groninger because the Steinert coach had predicted last winter that Steinert would defeat Princeton this year. On Friday, when he heard PHS had swept the 440, he admitted the meet was lost.

A sweep in the 440, javelin, broad jump and high jump, plus a 1-2 finish in both the low and high hurdles, powered PHS to victory. It offset the fine individual performance of Steinert's Ron Holzman who finished first in three events. A cold, strong wind hampered the runners throughout the meet.

PICK YANKEES AND GIANTS TO REPEAT: Both Ted Isaacson (left) and Guy Wirsig, members of the Hun School baseball squad, pick the Yankees and the Giants to repeat as pennant winners. While the Yankees are the virtual unanimous choice in the American League, there is less agreement in naming the National League leader.

Question of the Week

Question: What teams do you think will finish one-two in the American and National League races this year?

Where asked: Around town.

Bill Stryker, 6 Fisher Avenue, employee, State Highway Department: Yankees and Dodgers to win. I think Stan Williams wil be able to help the Yankees and I look for Terry to win another 20 games. I think Terry, Williams, Stafford and Ford will win between 55-60 games. The Orioles seem to be coming along this spring and I pick them or the Tigers to finish behind the Yanks. I think the Dodgers will take it, if Koufax comes back healthy. The rest of the league looks pretty even. The Giants or the Reds will probably fight it out for second place.

Bob James, 2 Evelyn Place, student: Well, in the American League, I've got to go along with the Yankees. They win it every year. They're a strong team and they seem to be getting even stronger every year. They not only have great hitting in Maris and Mantle but they also have a good pitching staff which makes for a well-balanced team. Runner-up? I think Baltimore will be. They've looked good in spring training and I think they'll give the Yanks a battle right down to the wire. In the National League, the Dodgers. They have speed, great pitching and consistent hitting. They don't have the power of the Yankees but their hitting is consistent. The Giants should come in second. They've still got the one and only Willie Mays.

Eddie Gibson, 216 Johnson Avenue, Lawrenceville, clerk at Bill's Men's Shop, 30 Witherspoon St.: I have to go along with the Yankees; they have the power and the pitching. Detroit should be the runner-up. If Lary and Kaline stay healthy, they'll be up there. They're the Yankee-killers; they bother them all the time. The Dodgers will take it in the National League because they won't make the same mistake they made last year. They have youth. Runners-up will be the Giants and the Redlegs.

John Pemberton, Little Rocky Hill Road, auto mechanic for Lahiere-Kane: The Angels in the American League. They've got good pitching and good fielding. They had the best fielding team in the league last year. They have some young pitchers who should win this year. The Yankees and Baltimore will be right behind the Angels. Cleveland will be in there, too. I think the Giants will take it in the National League. They've got a good club. They're rested. Last year, Alou, Cepeda and some others played ball all winter. Instead of 160 games they played 280. They played for a solid year. This winter they didn't. The Philies should come in second.

Ted Isaacson, 923 Lawrenceville Road, Lawrence Township, Hun School junior: The Yankees in the American League. They're my favorite team; I've liked them all my life. They can't lose with Mickey Mantle. The Tigers should finish second. They have been in a slump the past few years and if Kaline and Colavito are set, they should have a good year. Giants in the National League, what with Mays, McCovey and Cepeda. The reason I don't pick the Dodgers is that I don't think Wills will steal as many bases this year. The Dodgers will be runner-up to the Giants, unquestionably.

Guy Wirsig, 682 Ewing Street, Hun School senior: It has to be the Yankees. They have the power, pitching and defense. Detroit should give them a run for the pennant, depending upon whether Kaline can recover from his injury and whether Lary can regain his form of 1961. I think the Giants will take it easily—by eight games. They will overcome their early June hex and from now on will become the Yankees of the National League. For runner-up, it will be between the Dodgers and the Redlegs. They're about even and it's tough to say who will finish second.

Mike Hazynski, Florence, construction laborer: The Philies in the National League. Look how they finished in the last half of the season. They had the best won and lost record in the League. Mauch was the manager of the year. In the American League? Is there a question? The Yankees, of course. The rest of the league is just farm material for them. The Yankees always get the guys nobody wants. And the minute they put on a Yankee uniform, they go crazy. It's been proven time and time again. If it weren't for injuries, the Angels might have been up there and I think they'll be up there again this year. They're an up-and-coming team.

Dick Roberts, 34 Witherspoon Street, employee, West Windsor News Service: The Yankees, of course. They're the best team in the league. They've got power, pitching and money. Angels will be second. I pick the Giants in the National League because the Dodgers can't take the pressure. The Dodgers will come in second. Or maybe the Phils.

William Nelson, 66½ Witherspoon Street, bartender: The Yankees because they've got the best. They've got the money and no other team can beat them. I don't like them but I'll have to pick them to win. Baltimore should come in second this year. The Giants in the National League. The Dodgers, in my opinion, are through. They haven't got it anymore. They're too old.

Joe Mardesich, Lawrenceville School junior: The Yankees are my ball club. They've got Mickey Mantle and as long as they have Mantle they'll win. The L. A. Angels second. That's a sentimental choice but I think they should be up there. They have a lot of spirit and desire. The Dodgers should win in the National if Koufax stays healthy. They've got a good balanced attack. The Giants for second.

Knight Coolidge, Lawrenceville School senior: Coming from Chicago, I'll pick the White Sox. This is largely a sentimental choice and the Yankees will probably win it again. Hopefully, the Giants will win in the National League. I think they are a colorful team.

Donald McNitch, Alexander Road, carpenter: The Yankees. They're the best in the league and anyone who doesn't pick them is crazy. They have the power in Mantle and Maris. Detroit will be runner-up. I think it will go right down to the wire in the National League with the Dodgers coming out on top over the Giants. The Dodgers have the edge in pitching with Drysdale and Koufax.

John Knapp, No. Olden Avenue, Trenton, bicycle repairman for Kopp's Repair Shop: I always go for the underdog, but in the American I'm afraid it's going to be the Yankees again. They have too much power. And a good pitching staff, that's for sure. In fact, the Yanks will run away with it so easily, there's no use even trying to name a runner-up. The way they have been playing ball this spring you've gotta pray for the Mets to win in the National League. The Dodgers will be runners-up.

Ira Mitler, Trenton, employee, Princeton Borough Street Department: In the American League, it's cut and dried: the Yankees. They have all-round ability — pitching, fielding, batting — all-round balance. I've been a Yankee fan ever since 1927 when they had that great team. I pick the Angels to move up to second. I'd like to see the Mets win in the National League. I think Duke Snider will give them a lot of help in hitting the long ball. But I feel it will be the Giants or the Dodgers again. Hard to say who will win. There might even be another playoff between them.

Bill Aiken who won the high hurdles; co-captain Jack Kelly who captured the javelin with a 172-foot effort; Bruce Baxter, winner of the 440; and Al Spencer who won the discus with a fine throw of 129 feet.

Aiken, a sophomore, also placed second in the low hurdles and the pole vault. Other first place winners for Princeton include Tom Heiberger, low hurdles; Art Brooks, broad jump; and Larry Madden, high jump.

Groninger was especially pleased with the showing of Art Brooks. He had been able to practice only a few days before the meet and Groninger commented that his first place effort of 19' 6" in the broad jump was a good performance.

SAILING CLUB TO MEET

Friday at Nassau Inn. The Carnegie Sailing Club will hold its annual meeting Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the Ship's Room of the Nassau Inn. All members and their wives are invited.

Trophies will be presented to these winners of the club's 1962 racing program: Championship division — Robert M. Wilson, first; John M. Reeder, second; Fred Nicoll, third; handicap series — Nicoll, first, K. Dexter Miller Jr., second; Walter B. Foster, Jr., third.

Spring series—Wilson, first, Richard C. Grace, second; Walter B. Jefferson, third; Fall series — Reeder, first; Miller, second; Wilson, third.

Runyon Colie of Philadelphia, who holds more international penguin class championships than any other dinghy racer, will be the speaker. The Carnegie Club's spring program will begin formally on Sunday, April 21.

TWO IN A ROW

YMCA Wins County Title. The Princeton YMCA All-Stars won their second consecutive Mercer County Basketball Championship on Monday.

In the semi-finals the All-Stars defeated Fisk of Ewing. Then, after a ten minute rest, the Indefatigable Stars trounced the Central YMCA of Trenton for the championship. The score was 62-46.

Coached by Larry Ivan, the All-Stars have won 14 games over a two-year period to remain undefeated. Members of the team include Colin Leitch, Buddy Britton, Billy Saunders, Johnny Barbour, Joe Lourman, Jim Wheeler, Richard Vomacka and Albert Spencer.

The All-Stars are comprised of leading players from the four-team Princeton YMCA Senior High School Basketball League. Final league standings show the Warriors on top with a perfect 12-0 record. Behind them are the Bombers (5-7), the Unknowns (4-8) and the Celtics (3-9). Colin Lletch led the league in scoring with a 23.4 average, Britton and Bar-

LARRIES DROP OPENER

To Trenton High. Lawrenceville's baseball team faced the University of Pennsylvania freshmen Wednesday with one loss on its record. The Larries dropped a 9-1 decision to Trenton High Saturday in their season opener. They will oppose Blair Academy this Saturday.

Lawrenceville could only manage one hit in six innings as Southpaw Bob Candeliori fanned 11 for the visitors. The Larries picked up their sole run in the seventh against reliefer Dom Lombardo on a single by Mark Haley, a fielder's choice, an error and a sacrifice fly.

The tennis team was the only other athletic squad to begin its season last week. The team shut out the University of Pennsylvania at home Saturday, 9-0, and will meet the Landon School on the Lawrenceville courts this Saturday.

The golf team will open its season this weekend in a contest with the Army Plebes at West Point. Lacrosse players will wait until Wednesday, April 17, to open their season against Peddie School at Hightstown and the track team will take on its first opponent, Blair Academy, at Blairstown on Saturday, April 20.

COMMITTEE NAMED

At Springdale Golf Club. The women's committee of Springdale Golf Club has been formed for 1963.

Mrs. William L. Wilson and Mrs. Robert J. Shaw have been named co-chairmen. They will be assisted by Mrs. John L. Cullen and Mrs. Alan C. Poole, tournament; Mrs. J. Harris Mathey and Mrs. John F. Becker, handicap; Mrs. Edward G. Gren and Mrs. James J. Whelan, house; Mrs. Peter Scotese and Mrs. James A. Love, prizes; Mrs. William H. Sayen, III, and Mrs. Robert R. Thompson, nine-hole; and Mrs. Karl D. Pettit, Jr., publicity.

TOURNAMENT WON

By Princeton Y Team. Princeton crushed Antheil, 54-17, to win the 1963 Mercer County Junior High YMCA basketball tournament held in Antheil School in Ewing Township last week.

The visitors took an early 10-0 lead and held a 22-11 halftime margin. Princeton clinched the victory with a third-period outburst that gave it a 42-15 lead with a quarter to play.

Bill McQuade paced the attack with 17 points. He was assisted by Jeff Bullock, who had 12, and Wilbur Hines with nine.

BOWLING NOTES

High Game Recorded. Sara Rose, a 161-average bowler, rolled a 240 game last week for the high score of the year in the Woman's Industrial League. She added games of 189 and 164 for a 593 series.

Decker's Dairy swept three games to move within a point of the league-leading English Shop. The leaders hold a 44-43 edge over Decker's and are five points ahead of third-place Jefferson Plumbing. Other outstanding individual efforts were recorded by Dot Wheeler, 165; Dot Silvester, 157; Pat Golden, 156; and Evelyn Walton, 152.

Joe Baldino bowled a 216-195-212-623 series to regain possession of first place in the Individual Classic League. With 53½ victories, he leads Mike Basile by one-half game. Guido Zinetti is in third place, a game off the pace.

Fourth-place Joe Trani had the second high score with a 214 game. Others to equal or surpass 200 pins for ten frames were Mike Zeccola, 210; Frank Maddalon 206; and Basile and Zinetti, 200 each.

In the Industrial League, the Reformers swept three games and replaced Para Lab in a first-place tie with the Princeton Elks. Each team has 31 points to lead Para Lab by two points to lead Para Lab by two and Tiger Garage by 12. Otto Olsen's 202 score was the only game to surpass 200. Ed Hughes rolled games of 191 and 192.

In "A" League action, Grover Lumber increased its lead to three points by virtue of its two victories in three attempts. The leaders hold a 28-25 margin over Aversano Construction and the Knights of Columbus.

Decker's Dairy and Cooper and Schafer are tied for fourth place with 24 points apiece. Frank Cawley captured single-game honors with a 214 effort. He was followed by Al Perna and Frank Sannino, 202 each, and Val Ranallo, 200.

Princeton Number One increased its Tri-County Firemen's League lead to 15 points. With 62 points, the leaders are in front of Rocky Hill by 15, Dutch Neck by 16 and Hook and Ladder II by 18.

Art Parr rolled a 214 contest to outscore Les Luck by three pins for individual honors. Frank Stofko had a 207 and Norman Luck bowled a 205. Narrowly missing the 200-mark were Jack Maple, 196, and Ken Luck and Elmer Wilson, 192 each.

Sportsmen Number Two won three straight to break a tie in the "B" League and take sole possession of first place by four points. The leaders have a 44-40 edge over Edwards Engraving, tied for first the week before, and Kase Kleaners.

Mike Pinelli was high man for the week with a 227 mark. He was followed by Howard McWhorler, 219 and 203; Al Hibbard, 215; Harry Kahny, two 211 games; John Fugill and Jake Bartolino, 210 each; Fred Procacelni, 209 and 202; Mike Zeccola, two 202 games; Jack Petrone, 202; Jack Lucey, 201; and John Balestrieri, 200.

BUSINESS In Princeton

THE SCENE CHANGES

Two Establishments Open. Central Nassau Street will take on a new look this week with the opening of one new establishment and the expansion of another.

Hinkson's Stationery Store, a fixture of Nassau Street for more than half a century, will open Monday in the premises formerly occupied by "The Balt" restaurant — a true home-coming, because this is the very spot where the first Hinkson's was located in the early years of this century.

Next door, the new Princeton Coffee Shoppe has opened where The Balt Bakery used to be.

Patrons of "The Balt" restaurant will blink with disbelief at the new Hinkson's — modern wood paneling and white perforated display boards instead of white tile walls, and soft, bright contemporary lighting fixtures in stead of the ones that were there before.

In the new location, Umberto Roberto, owner of Hinkson's, has 2,100 square feet of display and selling space, compared to the 840 he had in the old location.

MR. RETAILER AND MR. RESTAURANTEUR: Business neighbors who are sharing the building occupied by the former Balt Restaurant and Bakery, 82-84 Nassau Street, are Umberto Roberto (left) and Francis Pietrinferno. Mr. Pietrinferno's new restaurant, The Princetown Coffee Shoppe, Inc., opened this week. Owner of Hinkson's, Mr. Roberto plans to move into his new stationery store on Monday. (Staff Photo)

New Items Added. He plans to use the additional footage to expand the stationery and business supply lines he has always carried. In addition, he will now handle such items as toys, gifts, party decorations (a hitching rack) and steel filing cabinets.

A native of Princeton, Umberto "Bert" Roberto has lived in his home-town all his life, graduating from Princeton High School. For many years, he was part owner of the Yellow Cab enterprise here. Then, in May, 1960, when Harold Hinkson retired, "Bert" bought the stationery store.

Originally known as Sinclair's, in the early 1900's, the shop began life in "The Balt's" subsequent location. After a time, it became "Roland's," and then in 1919, it was bought by Harold Hinkson, who gave it his own name. Mr. Hinkson had formerly been an employee of the store, under the Roland ownership.

COFFEE SHOPPE OPENS

In Former Balt Site. Princeton's newest restaurant, The Princetown Coffee Shoppe, opened its doors for the first time on Monday. It is located at 84 Nassau Street, site of the former Balt Bakery.

The new establishment is owned and operated by Francis Pietrinferno of 237 Mt. Lucas Road. Mr. Pietrinferno first entered the restaurant business eight years ago when he opened the Nassau Coffee Shoppe at 154 Nassau Street, next door to the Public Library. He reported that the Nassau Coffee Shoppe will remain open.

The richly-decorated Princetown Coffee Shoppe is much more than its name implies. From its huge charcoal grill, it can prepare anything from a hamburger to a steak.

The entire interior of the Princetown Coffee Shoppe has been paneled in cherry wood. In the rear are tables surrounded by large, comfortable captains' chairs, capable of seating 73 people. Wagonwheel chandeliers hang overhead. A nine-by-four-foot mural, "Blue Grass Country," decorates one wall.

To the front of the coffee shoppe is a softly undulating counter, shaped like a flattened "W". One feature of the fountain is a magic milk shake machine that dispenses ready-made, old fashioned shakes. By turning around, those sitting at the fountain can gaze at a mural of a fox hunt. Or they can see it straight ahead in the mirror.

Added touch of elegance: The metal stems supporting the 17 fountain stools are coated in 14-K gold.

In the center and dominating the coffee shoppe is a huge charcoal hearth with its gleaming copper canopy. Its exhaust fan is so powerful that a second "return" fan was installed. Otherwise, the exhaust fan would take all the air out of the restaurant, Mr. Pietrinferno said.

Infra red lights keep the food hot until it is snatched away by the waitresses. An oxen-yoke chandelier hangs over the hearth.

Other touches designed to pamper include an intercom FM system that will pipe music from speakers in the ceiling, a light dimmer control that will provide softer lighting for the dining room area and more for the fountain where it is needed, and air-conditioning throughout.

The Coffee Shoppe will be open from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m., seven days a week.

MANAGER NAMED

At Princeton Bamberger's. Joseph Kahn, merchandise manager of Bamberger's Newark, has been named manager of the organization's Princeton store.

Mr. Kahn, a member of Bamberger's Newark outlet since 1941, has also been appointed to the administrative board at Princeton. In the past he has held the positions of head of stock of budget sports wear, assistant buyer for budget coats and suits, assistant buyer of women's and misses budget coats, suits and budget sportswear and buyer for women's budget shoes.

He is a graduate of Rutgers University and lives with his wife and two children in West Deal. He replaces Jean-Pierre Meyer, who has been appointed manager of the Morristown store.

News Of The CHURCHES

HOLY WEEK Services

Two of the most solemn days of the Christian year are Maundy Thursday and Good Friday. Special ceremonies and devotions are scheduled in Princeton area churches, both Catholic and Protestant.

Maundy Thursday is the anniversary of Christ's Last Supper with the 12 disciples on the eve of His crucifixion. From the Last Supper have come the ritual of the Mass and the forms of the Lord's Supper, or Holy Communion. "Maundy" comes from the Latin "mandare," meaning to command.

Mass will be offered at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church at 4 p.m. Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament will be held from 10 p.m. until 3 p.m.

Good Friday. Private devotions of the Three Hours of Agony will be held from noon until 3 on Good Friday, with distribution of Holy Communion at 3 p.m. Stations of the Cross will be observed at 8 p.m. The Easter Vigil will begin at 11 p.m. on Holy Saturday, followed by High Mass at midnight.

In Trinity Episcopal Parish, the Watch before the Blessed Sacrament will be maintained at All Saints' Chapel, Snowden Lane, from 8:30 p.m. this Thursday until 9 a.m. on Good Friday. Services at Trinity Church will be 7.15 and 9.30 a.m., Holy Communion; 9 a.m., morning prayer; noon, intercessions; and 5.15 p.m., Evening prayer.

The Good Friday Liturgy will be said at 9 a.m. in both churches. The Three Hours of Devotion, a community service will be held from noon until 3 in the Princeton University Chapel, the Rev. Charles G. Newbery officiating. Evening prayer will be at 5:15 in Pierce Hall of Trinity Church and at 7:30 in All Saints' Chapel. On Easter Evening, baptism and presentation of Lenten Mite Boxes will take place at the 4 p.m. evening prayer service. Holy Baptism will be observed at Trinity at 4 and evening prayer at 5:15.

At Lutheran Church of the Messiah, the service of Holy Communion will be held at 8 this Thursday. The children's morning service will be at 11 on Good Friday, followed by a community service of Tenebrae at 8 p.m.

A choir concert will be held at 8 this Thursday at Bunker Hill Lutheran Church, Griggstown, featuring the 38 voices of the a capella choir of the Lutheran Brethren Schools, Fergus Falls, Minn.

Maundy Thursday services will be held at 8 p.m. at Calvary Baptist, Kingston Presbyterian, First Presbyterian, First Baptist, Westerly Road, Plainsboro Presbyterian and at Christ the King Lutheran Churches.

Good Friday services will be held at 8 p.m. in Kingston Presbyterian, First Baptist, Six Mile Run Reformed and Christ the King Lutheran Churches.

SUNRISE RITES PLANNED

"LOOK AT A CHILD . . ." The eye of the Orthodox Christian sees not a tripartite universe, but a unified one, with the physical closely related to the spiritual, the temporal to the Divine, so that even the smallest fragment, the sunset, the spring grass or the reflection of a candle on a child's face, is evidence of God. This young girl was a member of the University Chapel congregation at the Eastern Orthodox Lenten Service held Palm Sunday evening. (Ulli Steltzer Photo)

BALL TEAM WINS AGAIN

Blanks Seton Hall, 4-0. It is ten years or more since a Princeton baseball team began the season by winning four of its first five games, and hopes are accordingly rising almost daily in the vicinity of Clarke Field. Tuesday's triumph was an unexpected but welcome shutout of Seton Hall, credited to junior Emil Rosenberg.

The Tiger hurler was unimpressive last season but lived up to advance billing against Seton Hall with a fine four-hitter. He pitched himself out of trouble on several occasions, and earned the right to a starter's berth behind the ace of the staff, southpaw Gerry Skey.

Seton Hall miscues told most of the story. In the third, a long drive to dead center by sophomore shortstop Joe Sisco went for a triple when it was misjudged. Vic Woolley scored on the blow and third baseman Wally Uhle promptly chased Sisco home with a sharp single to left.

The Tigers got their third run in the sixth when they loaded the bases with two out and Don Weeden beat a late throw on a force play at second. Captain Don Fudge scored on the play to make it 3-0.

Blake Stafford provided an insurance run in the eighth when he walked and came home on succesive singles by Larry Schoenfeld and Weeden. Rosenberg appeared to tire in the last two rounds, but had it in the clutch, which is just what Eddie Donovan needs.

PHS NINE DEFEATED

By Good Relief Pitching. A one-hit performance by Ewing hurler George Kessler over the last five innings stifled the Princeton High School baseball team's attack Tuesday and the Little Tigers lost, 3 to 2.

They jumped on starter Dan Evanko for two runs in the first but that was all they were able to muster as Kessler proved extremely effective. Singles by Ken Ward and Jim Case, combined with two Ewing errors, gave the visiting Princetonians their two tallies. Jack Rosso yielded single runs in the second, fifth and sixth to be charged with the defeat.

Howard Basketball Captain

Bill Howard, who came along fast after the season began to earn a starting position on the Princeton basketball team, has been elected captain for next year. The Bunn Trophy, for outstanding play and sportsmanship, was won by Captain Art Hyland.

Howard, a resident of Princeton, Ill., was also captain of the freshman quintet two years ago and is a starting end on the football team. The Tiger five next year will play a 26-game schedule, including appearances during the Christmas holidays in the Invitational Tournament at Lexington, Ky., in another which Duke will host at Durham, N. C., and possibly a third in Miami, Fla.

TO SHOW ART OBJECTS

At Riverside School. The Riverside School PTA will hold a display and sale of works by area artists on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, April 24, 25 and 26.

Included in the exhibit will be demonstrations by various artists and a display of children's work. On Friday evening, coffee and pastries will be served at the showing, which is the first of its kind at Riverside.

The school plans to establish a permanent art collection which will be supported by the show. A sculpture of an elephant, created by Adolph Dioda, has been purchased to begin the collection.

Co-chairmen of the exhibition are Louis Cicchini, Mrs. N. E. O'Connor and Mrs. David Brodsky. Assisting them are Mrs. R. H. Williams, Mrs. Herbert Gurk, S. A. Ochs, Mrs. Anthony A. Scaramozzino, Mrs. K. G. Negus, Mrs. J. K. Delaney, Mrs. J. P. Cleaver, Mrs. Landon Peters, Mrs. Samuel B. Treiman and Mrs. Francis R. Holt.

Your Friendly Neighbor

Dear Boys and Girls:

The antique cars in our advertisements of the past few months have brought forth such interest and reminiscence with us "senior" citizens, that I thought you of the "junior" society would like to share in the fun.

So, we are going to run a contest based upon our antique cars.

If you are age 14 or younger you are eligible to enter the contest and your parents — mind, parents only — may help you. (Library research is permissible, of course.)

Each week for the next 7 our advertisements will show two or three of these antique cars with a clue as to the years or makes of cars shown. You are to identify the make and the model year.

Our June 7th advertisement will be the contest entry form upon which you will identify the cars. Then, just come into PENNINGTON FORD with either mother or dad — or both — so your entry can be checked to see if you win a free brake adjustment for their car.

Hope you enter and have fun with our little contest. We are looking forward to meeting you

I remain,

Your friendly neighbor,

J. C. Pennington
